Yankee Pilots Mum On Why No Defense

American Jet Flier Chutes Safely After Incident Over Germany

WIESBADEN (AP)—Two U. S. fighter pilots fired at by two Communist Mig-15 jets over the U. S. zone of Germany said today they were attacked without warning, but did not fire back.

Asked at a news conference why they did not shoot back in self-defense, one replied: "We'd rather not answer that question."

The two pilots gave a personal account of the shooting down of one American jet by two Soviet-made jets from the Czech Air Force. It was the first time Red aircraft had shot down an American plane over U. S.-held territory. The grave incident of the East-West cold war spread alarm over Western Europe.

Lt. Warren G. Brown of Henderson, Colo., parachuted to safety from his bullet-riddled Thunderjet. His companion, Lt. Donald C. Smith, of Marysville, O., fled from the attack scene seven to 10 miles inside the U. S. zone, near the Czechoslovak frontier without being hit.

"WE WERE circling back and forth about seven to ten miles inside our line when these two planes jumped us," Smith said.

Brown added:

"The planes crossed in front of us. We started to circle to the left toward the west. One of the planes fell in behind me. He followed me for three or four circuits. I was a little bit confused as to his intention and I tried some evasive action. Then he opened fire and hit my plane."

"It flipped over on its back and I found myself in a dive. It seemed pretty well shot up and I had trouble controlling it. I headed back toward our own base (Fuerstenfeldbruck, near Munich)."

"Then I noticed that my right stabilizer was shot up. Then I lost my right tip tank and noted my wing was coming apart."

"I didn't think I could control it much longer, so I radioed Smith that I was abandoning the craft, which I did. I made a successful parachute landing."

Brown's injuries were only minor scratches. The mustached 30-year-old veteran, who had flown (Continued on Page Two)

Bill Evans Is Named Winner Of 1953 Bob Bowsher Trophy

A massive young giant whose smoothness and agility on a basketball court belie his size has been singled out for the highest individual award in Pickaway County basketball play.

He is Bill Evans, 18-year-old star pivotman for the 1953 tournament championship Pickaway Township High School team, winner of the 1953 Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy award.

Evans was a standout selection for this year's Bowsher Trophy award, an annual presentation made by The Circleville Herald.

The husky Pickaway Township cager was named for the singular honor by the 11 coaches of Pickaway County. His name appeared on 10 of the 11 ballots.

BALLOTING by the coaches and the tabulation of the votes were conducted in utmost secrecy, based entirely upon play in the 1953 Pickaway County tournament.

Even so, local fans who saw the Pirates play in this year's tournament probably will feel little surprise in the selection of Evans.

That is because the towering lad stood out so prominently in the qualifications necessary for winning the Bowsher Trophy—those of sportsmanship, cooperation, teamwork and attitude toward the game.

In the county tournament, Evans fulfilled those requirements easily, his cool-headedness, teamwork and rocklike steadiness making him a pillar of strength for the ultimate champion Pirate quintet.

Evans' name will be carved onto

BILL EVANS
1953 Bob Bowsher Trophy Winner

the Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy below those of a quintet of other top athletes named for the honor since 1948.

Williamsport's Jim Picklesimer was the first to have his name fitted on the rotating trophy, winning the honor in the 1948 county tournament. Fans who saw that tournament remember Picklesimer as the standout player.

BOB PONTIUS of Walnut was the second winner of the trophy, outdistancing his competitors for the award with his outstanding play and cooperation.

Lanky Bill Rowley of Darby won the 1950 Bowsher award. Rowley

was pegged from the start of the tourney as the winner.

Taking the 1951 award was Lester Sanders of Monroe Township, whose steady, reliable game allowed the Indian quint to collect its first championship in the school's history.

And Harley Evans, sharpshooting ace from Atlanta, won the 1952 Bowsher Trophy award by an almost unanimous decision. Atlanta's Evans was named on all 11 ballots in the voting and won the honor with a total of 102 possible 110.

Pickaway's Bill Evans was selected for the top honor this year by being named on 10 of the 11 ballots and earning 78 points out of a possible 110.

Evans was winner by a comfortable margin over Teammate Vic Pontius and Darby Township's Big Jim Grabill, each of whom was named on nine of the 11 ballots.

WHAT MADE Evans this year's top choice for the Bowsher Trophy?

He was not a standout scorer during the tournament, ranking several names below the leaders in that department. He was not a colorful player, no flash and glitter to his performance.

But Evans was reliable. He was steady. He was someone to lean on, to keep things flowing smoothly and make plays click.

Evans fouled and was fouled during this year's tournament. But those were taken in stride as part of the game—no protests, wry looks or stiff-legged swaggers.

The Pickaway Township youth, who celebrated his 18th birthday last Thursday, was pegged for the Bowsher award because he fulfilled the role of a good sportsman, his cooperation and teamwork were excellent and his attitude toward the game was undeniably superior.

County coaches voting in the selection were asked to pick the player who best fitted those requirements. Evans was their boy.

THE BOB Bowsher Memorial Trophy is awarded annually by The Herald in an effort to promote good sportsmanship, teamwork and cooperation among the players in the county tournaments.

The award was originated in 1948 as a memorial to Bob Bowsher, one of the first war dead heroes to be returned to native Pickaway County soil for burial.

Bob Bowsher was a chunky athlete in Circleville high school who played the game—almost any sport—down to the line in an effort to win, but foremost with the effort to win cleanly.

General Motors
Sets New Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—Record sales of $7,549,000,000 were made by the giant General Motors Corp. in 1952, according to its annual statement.

The total surpassed the 1950 record of $7,531,000,000 and compared with $7,465,500,000 in 1951.

The company, world's largest industrial firm, had a net income during the year of $558,721,179, equivalent to $6.25 a common share after payment of $12,928,313 in preferred dividends. This compared with net income of $506,199,560 or $5.63 a share in 1951, but was below the record of $834,044,039 in 1950.

Nancy untied her bonds, then freed her dad and grandma. But the bandits escaped with $825.

Three masked gunmen sneaked into her house and threatened to shoot her dad, Nathan Britzman, if he didn't give them money.

Newspaper's Forum Reflects Gripes, Hopes And Fears Of Entire Nation

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A newspaper forum has developed today into an old-fashioned town meeting reflecting the gripes, hopes and fears of a whole nation.

Opening its seventh year's program, the Bulletin Forum has tapped deep wells of controversy and opinion to bring into open discussion:

1. A union leader's belief that private enterprise is going to take over public power projects and that "Du Pont and General Electric will take over the atomic energy program for a song."

2. A senator's conviction that the Democrats for 20 years have been "beating the brains out of the private enterprise system" and it's time that private enterprise got a break.

3. A rabbi's plea that "ours is an age of much fear and little faith"—and that faith in God must be restored for peace.

4. The dispute over whether congressional investigations are going beyond the bounds of reason and whether they give enough protection to witnesses.

In these and other topics of discussion, the Bulletin Forum has taken on the atmosphere of a neighborhood meeting drawing packed houses and disclosing a strong public reaction to open discussion of ticklish questions.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.), in the role of a defender of public enterprise, told the forum Tuesday night that "It hasn't been so much the laws passed in the last 20 years as it has been the attitude of our lead-

OK Of Bohlen Is Held Up

Senate Also Stalls Anti-Soviet Writ

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's nomination of Charles E. Bohlen to be ambassador to Russia faced further delay today against a background of increasing tension in U. S. - Communist relations.

And the ceremonious funeral of Joseph Stalin was followed by the unceremonious burial by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of an Eisenhower-proposed resolution to condemn Russia for "perverting" wartime agreements by enslaving free peoples.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said the shooting down of an American fighter plane by two Russian-made Mig jets in the American zone of Germany emphasized a need for speeding Bohlen to Moscow, as urged last week by the State Department, to report on and analyze such developments.

The plan of GOP leaders had been for the Senate to act on Bohlen's nomination today. But Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) postponed until next Tuesday a scheduled vote by the foreign relations committee. He acted at the request of Senators Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Knowland (R-Calif.).

AT THE SAME session, the committee voted to postpone action indefinitely on the anti-enslavement resolution urged by Eisenhower. There were no signs it would be revived anytime soon, if at all.

The Senate Democratic Policy Committee had endorsed unanimously the original administration-sponsored resolution. But the Democrats balked when the Republican majority on the foreign relations committee added an amendment saying assuage of the resolution would not mean Congress was passing on the validity or the invalidity of the big power agreements made in World War II.

That ended all prospect of the resolution's passage by the "substantial unanimity" sought by Secretary of State Dulles.

In view of uncertainty over what may happen inside Russia, most senators now agree with Sen. George (D-Ga.) that it is best to hold up any resolution for the time being lest criticism of the Soviet government unify the people behind Premier Malenkov.

Britain Loses
Oil Legal Joust

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. (AIOC) today lost the first round of its battle to gain possession of 5,000 tons of disputed Iranian oil brought here by the tanker Miriella but immediately announced plans to carry the case to Rome.

A Venice court ruled that the oil had been purchased legally by the Supor Co. of Rome, charterers of the Miriella, from the Iranian National Oil Co. The tribunal ordered the release of the oil to the Rome organization. In London, an AIOC spokesman announced: "We are immediately initiating proceedings in the Rome court."

Permit Granted

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board announced today the granting of a renewal permit for industrial waste discharge to the Heine Packing Co. of Logan.

TWO CZECHOSLOVAKIAN MIG-15 jets attacked and shot down a U. S. F-84 jet plane 15 miles within the U. S. zone of Germany, near Regensburg, Bavaria (1). A second U. S. jet on the same mission landed at Fuerstenfeldbruck airbase near Munich. The U. S. government is making the "strongest possible" protests to Red Czechoslovakia and regards the incident as probably the most serious of its sort since the cold war began. Last week a Polish air force pilot flew his Russian-built MIG jet fighter from behind the iron curtain and landed at Bornholm (2) in the Baltic sea. Poland has demanded that the Danish government return that plane.

Effort To Prevent Lausche's Re-Election Killed By Panel

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Democrat's proposal to put a constitutional limit on the number of years a governor could hold office was killed Tuesday night by an Ohio legislative committee.

The proposal by Rep. Michael J. Crosser (D-Cuyahoga) to limit the governor to four terms, or eight years, frankly was aimed at Ohio's four-term Democratic governor, Frank J. Lausche. Crosser told the House Public Affairs Committee, to the Republican members' delight:

"I'm a Democrat, too, but this Laan has been in office four terms now and he might run for a fifth term or a sixth. It's getting to be a problem."

Rep. John V. Corrigan (D-Cuyahoga) remarked before the Republican-dominated committee voted down the proposal:

"It looks to me you are trying to do something by legislation that you haven't been able to do at the ballot box."

Corrigan offered an amendment he said might give the measure a chance of approval by the voters: Specifically grant Lausche the right to one more term if he could be elected to it.

THE COMMITTEE killed the Corrigan amendment, then on a voice vote killed the entire proposal.

The House Highways Committee started on the long road toward enactment of a bill to require at least annual inspection of all Ohio motor vehicles.

It is essentially the same bill as Lausche vetoed at the last legislative session on grounds it might create a state-wide racket.

The proposed law would license garages as inspection stations and permit them to charge $1.50 for each inspection. It limits required inspections to two a year.

The bill by Rep. Samuel Devine (R-Franklin) passed both houses of the last Legislature with huge majorities. The House overrode the veto, but the measure got lost in the Senate shuffle of the wild final legislative day.

A handful of House bills to increase gasoline and diesel fuel taxes to raise money for highway construction probably will go to a subcommittee of the House Public Affairs Committee later this week. The full committee has held hearings on all the bills and now needs to hammer them together into a single acceptable proposal.

The House Taxation Committee drafted a bill to boost taxes on pari-mutuel race track betting between three and four million dollars a year, nearly a million less than Lausche has suggested.

2 Miners Feared
Lost In Mishap

EMERY, Utah (AP)—Two men missing in an abandoned and burning coal mine may have to be sealed inside, Emery County Sheriff Joseph Holman said Tuesday night as weary rescue crews temporarily suspended their search.

The rescuers planned to resume efforts today to reach Albert Ricci Jr., 24, of Helper, Utah, and Wright M. Scott, 35, of St. George, Utah, who entered the smoldering mine Monday. The rescue crews fought cave-ins, smoke and gas.

Audience reaction was sharp and divided to the argument over congressional investigations and whether they have become a threat or a safeguard to freedom.

Roger Baldwin, chairman of the National Committee of the American Civil Liberties Union, contented Congress has begun to move into the field of "opinion and thinking" and that this is a dangerous thing.

Combat Veterans
Returning Home

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Among the Army veterans from Ohio, who are due to arrive from Korea today aboard the Navy transport General E. T. Collins, is Pfc. Clarence R. Robinette of Nelsonville.

The escort aircraft carrier Sitko Bay today will bring other Ohio veterans of the First Marine Air Wing home from Korea. They include Pfc. Eugene H. McCollum, 509 N. Market St., Van Wert.

Lodge Assails Russians In UN Assembly

U.S. Delegate Rips Into Gromyko; Wild Applause Follows

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. S. charged today that Russia's bosses have embarked on a policy of imperialism, not because of any fear of aggression by any other country, but because of fear of their own people.

Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. told the UN General Assembly that the Soviet Union had lost the respect of the world because of its policy of "violent words and violent deeds."

The Assembly broke out into wild applause, and had to be called to order, as Lodge spurned charges by Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko that the U. S. was doing everything in its power to prolong the Korean War.

The exchange broke out shortly after British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said that, despite Korea, we were not yet in World War III.

In that connection, Gromyko accused the U. S. Army of atrocities in Korea.

WHILE ASSEMBLY President Lester B. Pearson of Canada, gavelled for order, Lodge reminded Gromyko that "The U. S. Army you seek to smear is the same U. S. Army which stood beside the Russian Army to defeat the Nazis in Europe."

Lodge told Gromyko that "The U. S. Army was good enough for you in 1942, 1943, 1944 and 1945. It would be the same today had not the policies of the Soviet Government so tragically changed."

Earlier Eden told the Assembly that it was in nobody's interest that World War III should break out.

The British statesman said that "with the growing strength of the west there is no reason why it should break out."

He called for support of the United Nations as a "world meeting place" where opposing forces can get together and try to settle their differences without war.

Eden called on the Communist world to agree to the Indian Korean plan which the Assembly adopted last December. This plan would permit Red prisoners who don't want to go home to stay behind.

Total Of 514
Bills Facing
Ohio Assembly

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio legislature received 39 more bills Tuesday. The total for the session is 514. Major bills offered Tuesday would:

Create a legislative commission to survey Ohio's 113 boards and commissions to see how many could be merged for economy.

Set an annual $25 license fee on pinball machines and earmark the revenues for the aid of retarded children.

Require the state highway department to seek bids on both concrete and blacktop paving materials for road work. The department now opens bids only to the type of material it prefers for an improvement.

Increase the tax on wine from other states from 12 to 80 cents a gallon.

Raise the ceiling on family income for occupants of public housing from $2,000 to $2,400 a year.

Abolish the state Civil Service Commission.

Require telephone companies to obtain state operating certificates which could be revoked for inadequate service.

Sen. Fred Hoffman (R-Hamilton) proposed a constitutional amendment creating a five-member state highway commission. The commission would be elected in the same manner as other state officials and would appoint the highway director for a two-year term.

Ordinary Hen Has Secret To Top Efficiency

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Scientists point to the chicken as the heroine of the barnyard. They said if all farm creatures would become as efficient as the hen Americans need never worry about eating well.

Forty years ago the average hen produced about 87 eggs as a year's work. Today each hen turns out about 94 eggs in a year.

Her efficiency increased in still another way. She used to require 9.25 pounds of feed for a dozen eggs; now she gets the same results on only 6.9 pounds.

These figures came out today at the National Farm Chemurgic Council meeting, a conference of farm leaders, industrialists and scientists on how to make farming more profitable and efficient.

Dr. R. M. Bethke, director of research for a feed producer, said the chicken also has increased in meat-producing efficiency about one-fourth. Broilers now are turned out in about three-fourths of the time it formerly required, he said.

The hen's efficiency has been increased by breeding; by development of new feeding methods; by eliminating disease and by creating new feed elements, the feed experts said.

Kored Pledges Victory In War

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda published a message today from North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung stating that he plans to "localize" the Korean War by winning it.

The message in the Communist party organ said:

"The Korean people will be victorious. This means that the conflagration which threatens to engulf neighboring countries and seize the entire world will be localized."

A medical report filed by two court-appointed physicians on the condition of Mary Agnes Ruff, 34, of Ashville Route 2, held in the slaying of her husband, had not yet been made public record by common pleas Judge William D. Radcliff.

Judge Radcliff has said no definite time could be set for release of the information filed by Dr. J. M. Hedges and Dr. Ned B. Griner. The judge was reported to be out of the city Wednesday morning.

Evans Named 1953 Bowsher Trophy Winner

ball, basketball, track and boxing. His forte was good sportsmanship, teamwork and cooperation.

Evans, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Evans of Kingston Route 1, is a senior with four years as a varsity basketball player.

In school, the 6'2", 202-pound lad is a straight "B" average student in classical course subjects, preparing himself for college.

EVANS HAS announced his wishes to enter college next fall, although he has not yet selected the school.

Last fall, the lad was a star member of the Pickaway six-man football team in its first year of operation. He now has only one principal hobby, that of sports, with basketball and football heading the list.

His mother, when asked personal information about the youth, Wednesday, said he is always considerate in helping around the house, where there is much work to be done.

"He's always full of mischief," Mrs. Evans said, then quickly adding "but I wouldn't give two cents for a boy who isn't."

Two other Evans youngsters, Marilyn and Peg, boosted the Pirate team this year as cheerleaders.

Evans has piled up a long list of extra-curricular activities in school in music, dramatics, scholarship exams and in athletics.

He was president of his junior class and will be graduated this Spring as treasurer of his senior class.

Presentation of the Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy is hoped to be made later during a special honor banquet for the championship Pirate team given by Charles Glitt in Court-Main restaurant.

Congressman Sets Mid-April As Tax-Cut Bill Vote Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to cut personal income taxes 10 per cent starting July 1 appeared likely today to face a test vote in the house in mid-April.

Whether it will be confined solely to reducing the tax rate or be opened to all sorts of amendments, including one to increase the personal exemption from $600 to $1,000, may depend on the attitude of the Republican leadership of the House.

That leadership, in line with President Eisenhower's position, is opposed to the bill in any form until the federal budget is balanced or close to being balanced.

Tired of waiting or the leadership-controlled rules committee to send the bill to the floor, Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) announced Tuesday he will force a vote if the rules committee doesn't act by April 15.

Reed, sponsor of the bill and chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which approved it on Feb. 16, can demand a vote on the bill at any time. But if he does so, it would be open to all sorts of changes dealing with personal income taxes.

RATHER THAN risk opening the measure to amendments, Reed has requested the rules committee to protect it with a special rule. His request twice has been rejected, and Chairman Leo Allen (R-Ill.) has said he doesn't intend to alter his position until he is certain the federal Treasury can stand it.

"I am not going to wait any longer than April 15," Reed told newsmen. "If the bill gets out of hand on the floor because I can't get a rule barring amendments, it will be the responsibility of the leadership for not granting me that rule. I have my own responsibility to get action on the bill in time for new withholding tax forms to be ready by July 1."

Reed reportedly was seeking an informal agreement from Democrats and Republicans to vote against any changes in the bill. Such an agreement, however, wouldn't be binding.

Allen said the responsibility will be Reed's if the bill gets out of hand on the House floor.

"He has the right to bring it up at any time," Allen said. "He also has the responsibility for what might happen to it."

Reed's position is that since excess profits taxes are due to expire July 1, individual tax cut would become effective next Jan. 1. Thus Reed's bill would have the effect of reducing personal income taxes for 1953 by 5 per cent.

Movies Slated As Feature Of PTA Meeting

Two movies on widely-separated subjects will highlight the program Thursday night at a meeting of Circleville Parent-Teacher Association. Both movies will be short and total showing time is estimated at little more than one-half hour.

Also featured on the program will be an address by Mrs. Edith Smith, secretary of information services for the Ohio Society for Crippled Children. Her talk will be on main phases of the 1953 Easter Seal campaign, which opened last week and will continue until Easter Sunday.

The PTA session is scheduled for 8 p. m. Thursday in Circleville High School auditorium.

Longer of the two films will also relate to the subject of crippled children. Entitled "Search," the movie story is woven around the attitudes and problems faced by handicapped children in modern society.

Shown in many other sections of the country in connection with the Easter Seal drive, it has been described in advance circulars as "a disturbingly frank story for certain segments of our present-day society and one which certainly every parent should see."

EXPRESSING HOPES for a large attendance at the movie, Mrs. Clark Alexander, president of Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children, said:

"We've been promised the movie entitled 'Search.' However, since it's been in very wide demand, we've also arranged a substitute in case it does not arrive in the city on time from Chicago."

"The substitute film will show activities at the treatment center for handicapped children in Columbus. Naturally, no funds for the Easter Seal drive will be accepted at the PTA meeting. The drive depends almost entirely on appeals through the mail."

Also shown will be a movie drawing attention to the increasing shortage of school teachers in the United States. Superintendent Frank Fischer recently warned the PTA that a serious crisis in this respect is threatened soon in Circleville.

Legislation seeking increased funds for education is already under discussion in the 100th General Assembly.

His Tenor Voice Is Recognized

CLEVELAND (AP)—The squad car stood empty at the curb and the police were nowhere in sight. The chance was too good to pass up.

And so, over the police department's own radio system Monday, a mystery voice blared insults to cops for more than three minutes.

Tuesday, as Otha P. White was being charged with turning in false fire alarms, a patrolman heard a familiar tenor voice. White, a 47-year-old former car washer, admitted he did the broadcasting while two patrolmen were investigating a noisy party. Police decided to press the fire alarm charge, rather than search for laws about their radios.

Adkins, Clark Appointed To Planning Unit

Mayor Ed Amey Wednesday announced two more appointments to the city zoning and planning commission and said efforts will be made to have the organization meet within the next few days.

The commission is expected to play a major role in large-scale city expansion moves.

New members appointed to the group were Bob Adkins and Pete Clark. Amey had previously announced the appointment of Milton Patterson.

The Mayor said all three have accepted their appointments and that he expects a fourth acceptance sometime late Wednesday or Thursday.

The deeds will then be clear, Amey pointed out, for a meeting of the commission to take on the new members and to study the task ahead of it.

Les May, chairman of the commission, has frequently announced his desire to retire from the post because of the press of personal business. Other commission members have signified their willingness to yield their jobs to the new members.

Yankee Pilots Mum On Why No Defense

Asked if it were possible that the alien pilots thought the American planes were in Czech territory, Smith answered: "Of course, it's always possible that they could make a mistake, but we were not."

WHILE THE news conference was being held at the U. S. Air Force headquarters here, however, Bavarian Interior Minister Wilhelm Hoegner said Munich police had reported five frontier violations by Czech planes Tuesday.

U. S. Ambassador George Wadsworth in Prague was ordered by Washington to draft and deliver "the strongest possible protest" to the Czech Communist regime.

American High Commissioner James Bryant Conant in Germany denounced the "wanton shooting" and warned that U. S. forces here "will know how to deal with future incursions of this type."

Europeans were quick to note the Communist aerial attack occurred just a day after Georgi Malenkov, the new leader of the Soviet world, had promised in Moscow to continue Stalin's "policy of preserving peace."

Prague radio ignored the shooting in its news broadcasts Tuesday night by L'Humanite, organ of the French Communist party, published this Red alibi:

"Two American jet fighter planes flew over territory of the democratic republic of Czechoslovakia yesterday.

"Having refused reply to orders, they were pursued by Czechoslovak planes. One of the American planes was hit and shot down in Bavaria, very near the Czech frontier."

West German frontier police said today they had witnessed numerous cases last month of Czech planes flying several miles into Bavaria at great heights. They said the flights apparently were connected with Czech military maneuvers then underway.

Motorists Reminded Tag Data Essential

Motorists were reminded Wednesday they must know their taxing district before they get their automobile license tags.

Deputy Registrar Joe Brink said failure to give correct information on this detail has caused the office of motor vehicle registration considerable trouble.

"Before people come in for their tags," he said, "they should be very sure as to what city, village or township they live in."

Many, for example, come in and say they live in the City of Circleville when they really live in Circleville Township—outside the city limits.

"Still others come in and say they just don't know. All this information should be obtained before they come for the tags."

Brink said a great deal of confusion results when money is distributed to the wrong taxing district through incorrect information given by motorists.

GUESSING CONTINUES
THE PARALYTIC STROKE that removed Stalin from the earthly scene started the greatest epidemic of guessing the world has ever seen. Throughout the world the question continues to be: "What next?"
Diplomats, long accustomed to dealing with the Russian enigma, can only make informed guesses as to what the repercussions will be. The speed with which Stalin's successor, Malenkov, was named is in itself significant. It would seem that the stage was set for the change in command long before Stalin's fatal illness was announced.
For months Western intelligence sources interpreted tremendous stirrings in Russia as a Stalin-directed housecleaning preparing for his heir-apparent. There is a strong possibility that he was a very sick man, directing these moves from an invalid's bed. There seems to be little reason to doubt that Malenkov was selected by Stalin to be his successor.
Naming of Nikolai Bulganin as war minister is being interpreted variously in world chancelleries. There had been rumors in recent months that the Kremlin feared the army was gaining too great strength in the top Moscow hierarchy.
Barring complications in Russia or the satellites, Malenkov will undoubtedly start to make his weight felt internationally with little delay. Malenkov is described as a bull, contrasted to the description of Stalin as a fox—aggressive, ruthless and less considerate of the consequences of his actions.
There is the possibility that Stalin was stricken before he finished the job of riveting his successor securely in place. If so, there should be some indication of this before long.
A NEW APPROACH
IT HAS BEEN difficult for the American people to understand why the United States hasn't made more substantial progress in its efforts to make friends among the nations of Europe. Faced by the menace of Communism, it was taken for granted that these countries would join hands with the U. S. and close up ranks without question. This has not come about.
In the past, Washington has asked European nations to forget differences among themselves, to forego national interests and admit their own helplessness in the face of danger—to become to all intents and purposes subjects of Uncle Sam.
That may be stating the case too strongly, but that is why European nations have been dragging their feet in cooperating with the United States in opposing Communism. Apparently there is to be a new approach in wooing European interest in fighting Communism. Apparently no longer will the U. S. play the role of guardian angel for other nations while expecting them to take up arms at Washington's direction.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days
When I read of the quarrels between Mr. and Mrs. Vito Genovese, I could not help but recall that Carlo Tresca, radical editor and anti-Stalinist, was shot down in the streets of New York in January, 1943, and that nothing has ever been done about it. Tresca was killed by an assassin hired for the job from Murder, Inc.
I had known Tresca well in the days of the I.W.W. when he, Elizabeth Gurley Glynn, Big Bill Haywood, Emma Goldman, Alexander Berkman and others were enthusiastic philosophic anarchists, preaching doctrines of human liberty which would today in most parts of the world be regarded as conservative, if not reactionary. Tresca hated Soviet Russia, as did Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn became a leader of the Communist Party and has now been sentenced to prison.
Tresca was dramatic and fierce, with a sort of Svengali appearance. Yet, he was a deeply sincere man and was killed for it. According to Guenther Reinhardt, in "Crime Without Punishment," Gerhart Eisler had told him that Tresca would be killed before it happened. And Reinhardt ties the murder up with Tresca's fight in the Victory Council and the OWI against the excessive employment of Communists in those organizations.
The Victory Council, which the Communists had infiltrated and controlled, was an OWI-sponsored organ of foreign language newspapers designed to stimulate pro-World War II propaganda.
The OWI, at that time, was motivated perhaps by the thought that Russia was our ally, but it got fouled up by overdoing friendship to a point of subservience. The Victory Council, instead of being dominated by the OWI, was the organ of the Kremlin, and Tresca became a nuisance. John Roman, an agent of the Russian Secret Police, ran the Victory Council, in spite of the fact that it was paid for by the American taxpayer.
Carlo Tresca was killed by being shot at from a car on West 15th Street. The car was abandoned. The ownership of the car was never satisfactorily traced. Whatever suspects the police found, the lines petered out. The murder has never been solved, just as the murders of Juliet Poyntz and of General Krivitsky have not been solved. It is, however, spoken of freely in the Communist underground that Murder, Inc., was hired to do a professional job on Tresca.
How Genovese's name came into the case is described by Reinhardt as follows: "... In the fall of 1944, the Brooklyn District Attorney's office was given definite information as to who had supervised the Tresca killing, but the authorities neglected to follow up. The man who gave the information was Ernest Rupolo, a convicted gunman. He told the D.A.'s office that Vito Genovese, a Murder, Inc., jobholder, had set up the Tresca murder. Genovese, then serving as an American Military Government interpreter in Italy, was brought back to face another murder charge that Rupolo had pinned on him, but was never bothered with the Tresca case at all."

Sugar manufacturers will back an advertising campaign to convince dieters sugar isn't as fattening as it is accused of being. Perhaps the slogan will be "reach for a lick instead of a cig."

DIET AND HEALTH
When the Bowel "Telescopes"
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
A WEAKENED bowel can sometimes act like a telescope—I mean the old-fashioned type with the sliding sections. When one section of the bowel slides inside another, the condition is known as intussusception.
This disorder can occur at any age, but is more frequent in children less than two years old. As a rule, it is seen in baby boys from five to nine months old. It is not uncommon in old age either.
This telescoping of the bowel may disappear by itself, with the symptoms returning a few weeks later.
Usually the child has a sudden pain in the abdomen. He cries out, may vomit, and then suddenly feels well again. A little later he may be seized with another attack, and these attacks of vomiting and pain become more frequent.
Usually, the child is somewhat listless, but may be restless. He is hungry and tries to eat, but has difficulty keeping the food down. The stools at first may be normal, but later the child just passes blood and mucus from his bowels. At first this blood looks like currant jelly, but as the disease progresses, red blood is evident.
Telescoping may take place in the large bowel or small bowel, and sometimes at the place where these join. The turning of the bowel within itself causes a bowel obstruction and the bleeding. Many times a telescoped bowel may be seen protruding from the rectum.
A physician can recognize this disease in some cases by examining the patient carefully. The telescoped portion feels like a tumor as he presses his hand on the abdomen.
A surgical operation can correct the bowel weakness. Before it is attempted, however, a definite diagnosis has to be made. Usually the method is to give an enema containing barium and then taking x-rays. The exact location of the telescoped bowel can be seen on the x-ray picture.
Once a diagnosis is made, surgery should be performed immediately to reduce the obstruction, for the bowel may become gangrenous. In many cases, however, the barium itself is successful in reducing the telescoping, and makes surgery unnecessary.
Any child who suddenly complains of severe cramps, who vomits and passes some blood from the rectum, should be taken to see a physician immediately. The visit may save the child's life.
QUESTION AND ANSWER
R. K.: I had a metabolism test and was told it was extremely low. What would cause this?
Answer: A low metabolism is often caused by lack of thyroid secretion. Usually persons suffering from this condition have dry, sparse hair, the skin is thick and dry and they feel extremely sluggish and tired. The giving of thyroid extract under a doctor's supervision helps this condition.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
SATURDAY was a busy day, since the store was opening on Monday. Carol felt too tired to join the others for supper. She changed into a loose cotton housecoat, thrust her tired feet into slippers, and was getting herself something to eat when the doorbell rang. She smoothed her hair down with her hands quickly.
"Derek!" she exclaimed, when she opened the door.
He smiled apologetically. "I'm sorry to have arrived so late, but my plane just got in. Peter Quinell told me where to find you. Is everything okay?"
"Fine," she said, smiling. "Come along in."
The French windows were open onto the balcony, the sea breeze blew in gently, the room was softly lighted.
"This is quite a place," he said, looking around him.
She nodded. "I like it. I was just cooking supper. Won't you join me?"
"I did eat on the plane, but that was some time ago. I was going to ask you to come out and have supper with me, but this would be cozy."
She laid the bridge table, scrambled eggs and grilled frankfurters, made a pot of coffee, and while she worked in the kitchenette he leaned in the doorway, talking about the store, what she thought of the new season's stock, how she liked her fellow employees, her impression of Palm Beach. He didn't mention Thelma.
"You're a good little cook. You'd make some guy a wonderful wife," he said presently.
She laughed at him. "Just because I can cook?"
"No, not just because you can cook." He caught her in his arms and held her closely, kissing her lips. She let him kiss her and was aware again of that sense of physical attraction she'd felt before when she was near him. He was big, handsome, and even when he kissed her—more so when he kissed her—she knew he was nice. His kisses helped that ache of loneliness and frustration that was nagging at her, an ache she couldn't explain, which was nonsense, anyway. But presently she slipped out of his arms.
"The frankfurters are scorching. I don't think the most romantic male enjoys burned frankfurters," she said.
"No, a man wants everything, kisses and frankfurters, just done to a turn. Betty Ann's always telling me that men expect the earth," he agreed, grinning.
"How is Betty Ann?" she asked, as she piled the scrambled eggs into the center of a dish and arranged the sausages around them.
"Still goofy about that Felton character. Has he turned up here, by the way?" He asked that overcasually.
She felt oddly embarrassed. She turned away towards the oven to get the warmed plates. "Yes, he's down here on a job."
"You've been seeing much of him?"
She shook her head. "I saw him the day he arrived. He came to report to his boss, Julie Gallet, and I was lunching with her on the beach. And then, the other night, when I was at the Patio with a party, he was there with Julie."
Derek raised his dark eyebrows. "Useful when you can bring your chauffeur in to act as your escort. I wonder if he gets paid overtime." His voice was harsh, unfriendly.
She laughed. "I'll have to ask him!"
She put the supper on the table, but although they chatted pleasantly throughout the meal she felt there was something on his mind, something he wanted to talk to her about, but couldn't bring himself to begin. They were smoking cigarettes over coffee when he leaned both his elbows on the table and said abruptly, "Mind if I talk to you about something pretty personal, Carol?"
"No, no, of course not."
"It's about Thelma—Mrs. Felton. I'm, he hesitated and lit another cigarette, "in a bit of a spot about her."
"Yes?" she asked quietly.
"I like her, or at least I did," he hesitated, "like her very much indeed. She seemed a rather wonderful person and she said she was lonely and unhappy. I did my best to show her a good time, both on the boat and in New York. But she," he hesitated again, his good-looking face coloring in embarrassment, "seems to imagine I was more serious about her than I meant to be."
She remembered what Betty Ann had said: "She's out to marry you, Derek." Betty Ann had begged her to make a play for him herself. It had seemed a fantastic suggestion at the time, but now it didn't seem so fantastic. He was looking across the table at her now, his dark-grey eyes admiring her and pleading with her to understand.
She asked slowly, "You're not in love with Mrs. Felton?"
He shook his head. "Maybe for a few days I thought I was. I admit I was flattered by her interest in me. She made me feel—well, as though she needed me. I may have said more than I intended to. We were at the El Morocco one night, and we'd had drinks and champagne. Heck, I thought, if she can keep her head so can I. Frankly, I don't drink much, but a fellow doesn't like to be outdone by a woman." He paused, stubbed out his cigarette and lit another. She noticed that his hand was unsteady.
He cleared his throat and went on nervously. "The next day when I called at the hotel to take her to lunch at the Stork Club she sent down a message for me to come up to the suite. I went up and she threw her arms around my neck." He blushed as he said it. "She seemed to think," he cleared his throat again, "I'd asked her to marry me the night before."
"And you hadn't, Derek?"
"I hadn't. I swear I hadn't. I may have had a drink or two too many but I know I didn't ask her to marry me. We may have talked marriage. I remember saying that one day she'd make another man as happy as obviously she'd made her husband. The sort of thing a fellow does say."
"Like you said to me that I'd make some man a good wife because I could scramble an egg," Carol smiled. "Only I'm not going to take you up on it, Derek."
"I rather wish you would," he said quietly. "Only that Felton character sticks to my gutlet. He followed you over here, didn't he? I asked you before if you were in love with him."
"And I said I wasn't," she answered coolly.
"I know, but," she saw his hands clench on the table, "Thelma told me there had been something between you. Everyone at Felton's had been talking about it. I gathered it was chiefly because of you his uncle kicked him out; she said you had admitted to her that he'd visited you in your flat."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
news behind the news
By Ray Tucker
WASHINGTON, Mar. 11—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson has been shocked by his discovery that the nation's armed forces lack the two most effective weapons in modern warfare, airplanes and ammunition for the heavy guns. The need for production and replenishment account for his warnings against heavy cuts in the military budget.
General Van Fleet's proposed all-out offensive in Korea, as well as reinforcement of Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa and the French in Indochina, cannot be undertaken until these shortages are remedied.
Wilson, one of the country's top production experts, has delegated routine Pentagon duties to his assistants while he attacks this problem. This preoccupation explains why he has handed the job of defense reorganization to a committee consisting of General Marshall, Admiral Nimitz and General Spaatz.
RED AIR FORCE—Although the exact figures cannot be published, it is believed that the Red's air force has at least five times as many planes as the United States, and that the ratio of jet types is three to one in their favor.
Our airplane deficiencies are due to the fact that the United States virtually shut down this industry after World War II. Besides trusting the Russians during the "good-old-Uncle-Joe" period, we relied too confidently on our supposed supremacy in atomic defense.
The Kremlin, however, did not relax. From 1945 to 1948, the Russians built twelve planes to every one constructed in this country. From 1948 to 1950, they outstripped us by five to one. Even now, with our accelerated program, they are matching our output of approximately 10,000 planes a year.
EXPANSION—Thanks to our trust in Stalin's good faith and the Truman-Johnson economy crusade, the American Air Force fell from a world war peak of 273 groups to only two in December, 1946. In that year, Congress appropriated funds for 70 groups as a result of deterioration of relations with Russia.
But Truman refused to spend $800 million of the Air Force allocation, limiting the expansion to 48 groups. Not until the invasion of South Korea in June, 1950, would he agree to the 70-group total insisted on by Pentagon spokesmen and Congress. Subsequently, the maximum was set at 143 groups, which is the present objective.
DEFICIENT—But, and here is the news which shocked Defense Secretary Wilson, in the 29 months since the outbreak of the Korean conflict we have added only 48 groups for a current total of 96. That is an extremely weak aerial armada for a nation which has given so many commitments around the globe.
Worse still, more than half of these units are equipped with obsolete planes, which are useful only for training purposes. Our most serious deficiency is in the jet types. In fact, the Russians have supplied the Chinese in Korea with more jets than Washington has been able to forward to the United Nations forces.
CUTBACKS—Despite the acceleration of the program in the fall of 1950, only about 15,000 planes have been completed to the present moment. That contrasts sharply with the 60,000 turned out annually at the peak of World War II production.
Although it may mean cutbacks in the output of civilian goods, including "Motor Charley's" automobiles, it may be necessary for the Pentagon to demand a minimum production of 20,000 planes a year. Even with that figure, it would be several years before the U. S. could catch up with the USSR.
The man at the next desk suggests that since every family has a skeleton in the closet—why make bones about it?
Iran has decided to try prohibition. Wonder what the Iranian words are for "bootlegger," "speakeasy" and "bathtub gin"?
Statistics show it takes an average of seven writers to keep a comic going on television. Sometimes we wish they wouldn't work so hard.
The Viking raids in the 9th Century represented a national movement of Scandinavians which involved the conquest of most of Britain, great raids and acquisition of territory in Europe, great expeditions into Russia and further action to the south that took the Vikings into the Eastern empire.
The term "whalebone" is inaccurate, since it is not bone but the horny roof-plates of a whale's mouth.

Baby Parade In Nation Is Quickening

Many Businesses Due To Benefit From Hike In Resulting Trade

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The pace of the baby parade is quickening. Many businessmen, home builders, school boards, and taxpayers had better take note.

The record number of births in the United States last year—and the total so far this year—is even higher than a year ago—means bigger markets for baby foods, clothing, diaper services, toys, and baby sitters.

It means, later on, the need for more school rooms, teachers, desks, books, and school buses—and tax expenditures for same.

The continuing shattering of records confounds the experts—perhaps because the experts who expected the postwar baby boom to wane by now mostly belong to an older generation that went in for smaller families. The young couples married since the war are going in for second, third and fourth children.

That accounts for the fact that the total of births continues to rise, even though the number of marriages is declining, because the small baby crops of the depressed thirties are now reaching marrying age.

The National Office of Vital Statistics says more than 3,824,000 babies were born last year, two per cent more than in 1951. Marriages, however, totalled 1,563,971, for a drop of 3.6 per cent for the year. On a population basis, 1952 showed a gain over 1951 of 0.4 per cent per 1,000 persons. Marriages were down 5.7 per cent per 1,000.

The birth rate for third children in a family has gone up 77 per cent since 1940, for fourth children 50 per cent, and for fifth children 27 per cent.

This trend back to larger families is clashing head on with a postwar trend toward smaller houses.

Some families are solving it by such devices as expansion attics, or by adding rooms onto their homes. Others are on the move again.

The building industry is finding the growing family a new shot in the arm for the housing boom. Having sold a young couple a small home a few years back, the building industry now finds the growing family a prospect for a larger house.

Debate Meet Due

Homemade Bomb Barely Noticed

NEW YORK (AP)—A homemade bomb exploded mildly in the Radio City Music Hall yesterday. Its "pop" reportedly attracted the attention of only one person in the audience of about 6,000.

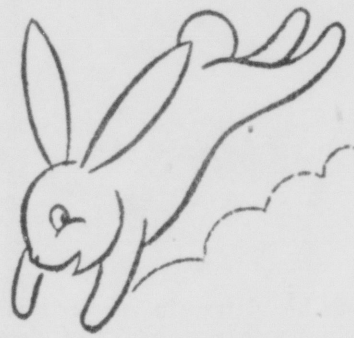

Police later said the bomb, a section of pipe filled with explosive and with a mechanical timing device, apparently was the work of "a publicity seeker who's been doing this for years." The suspect was not further identified.

The bomb, placed in the slit upholstery under a seat, singed the coat of an unidentified woman. She said the explosion was about as loud as an electric light bulb exploding.

Probe Sought Of Autos For Top Officials

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—A state representative has called for an investigation of the use of state highway department automobiles by the governor and lieutenant governor.

Rep. Clifton L. Caryl (R—Union) termed illegal the assignment of three cars to the governor and one to the lieutenant governor for their private use.

He asked State Auditor James A. Rhodes to investigate. Rhodes said he had turned the matter over to his auditor in the highway department.

Caryl said a 1953 limousine has been ordered for the governor's use and Rhodes not to honor the check to pay for it.

Caryl said it was illegal to use gasoline taxes and automobile license fees to buy cars for the private use of any officials outside the highway department. Voters recently approved a change in the state constitution requiring use of such funds only for highway purposes.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, a Democrat, was unavailable for comment. Rhodes, Caryl and Lt. Gov. John W. Brown are Republicans. Caryl heads the House Highway Committee.

Brown recently discovered he was driving a 1949 Buick although he had been assigned a 1952 model car. Attaches in the governor's office told Brown he could have the 1952 car as soon as the governor got his new automobile. But the governor ordered the 1952 car turned over to Brown immediately.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new book is on the market today at the best-seller price of $3 a copy.

It is the annual report of the Immigration and Naturalization

His aides explained this was "a part of the general economy move," and cited a 1951 congressional act authorizing a charge for government publications.

KEEPS YOU FEELING FRESH—ALL DAY LONG!

The new Plymouth fights the road for you, not with you! True balance designing "irons out" rough roads to give you a boulevard-smooth ride. Also, it takes the struggle out of steering, reduces the fatigue and nervous tension of long hours at the wheel. In the new Plymouth you know you've got complete control of the car and the road—and it's a mighty comforting feeling!

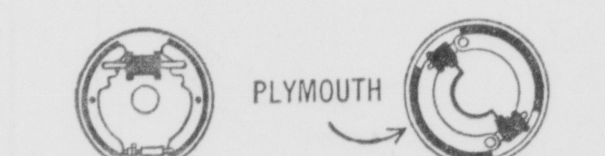

An old-fashioned "Rock of Gibraltar" hood design can keep you tense, on edge—worrying about what you can't see that's directly ahead of the car.

The new Plymouth has a low hood silhouette that lets you see more of the road directly ahead. This is modern styling—with a practical purpose!

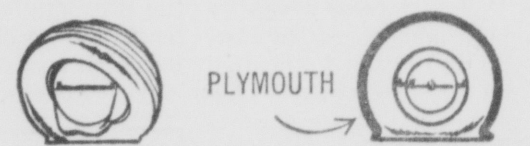

You can't relax, even on a short drive, if you're cramped or crowded in an unnatural seating position. The new Plymouth gives you the lasting comfort and posture protection of Comfort Level seats. Full-depth, full-width coil springs—not the common platform type—always give you correct, cushioned support.

Nothing builds up nervous tension like brakes that give an uncertain, uneven response to the pressure of your foot on the pedal. But with Plymouth's Safe-Guard hydraulic brakes you drive relaxed, confident of smooth, even braking response at every stop. There are two hydraulic brake cylinders in each Plymouth front wheel, where competitive cars have only one, plus greater areas of Cyclebond brake lining that assure longer, more dependable braking.

How can you relax when you have to worry about blowouts? Plymouth's famous Safety-Rim Wheels protect you with special retaining ridges that hold a deflated tire safely on the rim in case of a blowout. These and many other thoughtful Plymouth features add up to the most carefree, as well as the most comfortable, ride ever built into a low-priced car!

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any suggestion that Congress look for Communists among the clergy is a very hot potato. But, while Sen. McCarthy knows a hot potato when he sees it, a Congressman Velde juggles it.

That's one difference between these two Republicans—McCarthy of Wisconsin and Velde of Illinois—who nevertheless have some points in common:

McCarthy, 44, and Velde, 43, are both lawyers. Both were judges in their home states. And both are busy beating the bushes for Communists.

Two days ago Velde, chairman but apparently not boss of the House Un-American Activities Committee, which has been searching for Communists in education, made a statement about the possibility of looking for them among clergymen.

The roof fell in. All members of his committee who could be reached were against the idea. And some, but not all clergymen, made statements giving him the icy stare.

Confronted with this reaction, Velde said he may have been misinterpreted. McCarthy, watching Velde try to get his feet out of the flypaper, announced Velde could have any investigation of the clergy all to himself.

"I wasn't aware," said McCarthy, "of his plans to make such an investigation. He has my complete, wholehearted assurance there is not even the remotest possibility of our overlapping."

McCarthy, who began his rise to national attention in 1950 with charges of Communists in the State Department, is still working on the same project. He's chairman of a Senate committee investigating the department's Voice of America.

But there is another difference between these two former judges. McCarthy can walk into a brier patch and come out acting like a man who landed in a rosebed. Velde sometimes gets scratched up.

"I have been called," said McCarthy recently, "probably every name in the world and it has not been effective against McCarthy. I have been accused of everything except murdering my grandfather."

Velde tangled recently with Mrs. Agnes Meyer, wife of Eugene Meyer, board chairman of the Washington Post. In a talk to a group of school administrators she criticized Velde and plans for investigating schools and colleges.

Velde tried to hit back by saying Mrs. Meyer had been mentioned by Pravda as writing to a Russian journal a letter expressing profound admiration for the people of the Soviet Union.

The Post investigated and found that the writer was not only not Mrs. Meyer but had a different name and lived in Canada. The Post said when Velde was told he had made a serious error, he refused to retract unless Mrs. Meyer retracted what she had said.

The Post story which told all this mentioned the word "libel." The next day Velde retracted. He blamed the error on an employee of his committee. He said later the employee was fired.

Blackburn Cautions Against Dangers In Undulant Fever

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway County health commissioner, pointed to undulant fever Wednesday as one of the most serious threats facing farmer, and urban customers for their products.

"Brucellosis, the correct medical term for undulant fever, is a highly infectious disease which is rapidly becoming a major problem in the field of public health," Dr. Blackburn warned. "Its continued spread is being taken much too lightly in Pickaway County and elsewhere over the nation."

"It is now the fourth most common communicable disease in the United States. Unless more drastic preventive measures are undertaken it may be classed first in this respect within the next few years." The disease, also known as Bang's disease and contagious abortion, affects about one fifth of all cattle of breeding age.

ALTHOUGH RARELY carried from human to human, Dr. Blackburn said the disease is often caused in humans when the Brucella bacteria enters the body. Cattle, swine and goats are usually the source of infection.

The county health commissioner said persons may contract the disease by the use of infected raw milk, milk products or raw meat. It can also be spread, he added, by direct contact with infected animal tissues during butchering or by handling infected animals to aid delivery of young or remove retained placenta.

Dr. Blackburn estimated Brucellosis is fatal in about two per cent of the severe cases. Symptoms are general weakness, sporadic attacks of fever which may be accompanied by alternate chills and sweats, loss of weight, severe headaches and aches in the arms and back.

Chronic cases, Dr. Blackburn said, are characterized by stiffness of the joints, general weakness, fleeting aches and pains, and prolonged "run down" feeling.

"Prompt and qualified medical treatment," he added, "may keep many cases from becoming chronic. This is one of the diseases where prevention is vitally important, not only to the individual but to the entire community."

"It is possible to avoid the disease by pasteurizing all milk before drinking, and before processing into cheese and butter. The dairyman and his family are in greater danger than the general public, since they often use the raw milk, while the rest of the supply is usually sold pasteurized to the public."

"PERSONS WHO handle raw meat should protect themselves by the use of rubber gloves. Veterinarians should use every precaution. Meat should always be well cooked before eating."

As the best and only practical method of controlling the disease, Dr. Blackburn urged full cooperation with any control program operated on county or statewide levels. Such efforts, he pointed out, will be concentrated on controlling the disease at its source, in the animals. The health official continued:

"The Ohio Department of Agriculture, the state veterinarian and your county agent are all ready and willing and anxious to assist farmers in carrying out a control program. Only through this manner can Pickaway County become one of those fortunate counties free of Bang's disease."

"While it is true the county health department is more interested in the human element involved, we also wish to emphasize that a Bang's-free herd of cattle will produce from 20 to 23 per cent more milk, will increase the calf-crop by 40 per cent and will make your herd more profitable by giving the dairyman a much wider field for sale of his products."

In Gomera Island in the Canaries, the inhabitants can communicate with each other by a special whistle language which they use to talk across the deep gorges that are found on the island.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. No volume will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD: Having been an across-the-street observer of our City Hall for the past fifty years, during which I have had an opportunity to see a great deal of the work of our police force, I cannot let Bill McCrady's retirement as Chief of Police pass without at least a brief note of personal appreciation and commendation for the outstanding service which this public official has given to this community.

I have seen our chief at work at all hours of the day and night, under every possible condition and circumstance, in all kinds of difficult situations. He has literally been on the job 24 hours a day and I have never seen, nor heard of, his ever shirking an unpleasant duty.

He has demonstrated time and time again that he has what it takes—and he has taken on some very tough customers in his time. We might say that he has taken them in stride.

He has always been well liked by the youngsters of Circleville—a splendid testimonial in itself. And he has been appreciated by young and old alike ever since the days of his service as a motorcycle patrolman.

He deserves—and I am sure he has—the heartfelt thanks of all thinking citizens for a job well done over a long period of years. He has set a high mark for successors who must follow in his steps. If they do as well for our community as Bill has done we shall all have cause to be thankful.

Culprit Stripped

CLEVELAND (AP)—William L. White, 27, arrived at the county workhouse Tuesday in his underwear. He was wearing a stolen suit when Judge Edward F. Feighan sentenced him to 30 days for larceny.

The suit's owner, O. B. Allen, demanded and got the clothing back on the spot. Cops gave White a blanket to wrap around himself during the trip to the jail.

New Treatment

For PAIN RELIEF of ARTHRITIS & RHEUMATISM

After extensive experimenting, research, and testing, it was found that the pains of Arthritis and Rheumatism could be relieved by a combination of analgesics, diuretics, and vitamins. Patients treated with this combination of drugs, one of which is claimed to have 7 times the pain relieving effect of aspirin, were pleased and surprised at the miraculous, quick relief given.

This new therapy has established the fact that it not only provides effective, comforting relief of arthritic and rheumatic conditions, but also by its prophylactic action, assists in preventing recurrences.

Now many doctors are prescribing and using this combination, and it is proving very beneficial to many people who have been sufferers for years. Ask us about it.

Israel's Budget Is $605 Million

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel's government has proposed a 216 million pound ($605 million dollars) budget for the coming fiscal year. It promises considerable income tax reductions despite a 25 per cent jump over last year's budget total. The figures were presented to Parliament yesterday by Finance Minister Levi Eshkol, who said that the nation's foreign exchange controls would not be lifted in the near future. He said the government would curtail services and streamline the civil service in order to permit the tax reductions, including exemption of up to 70 per cent of the cost of living allowances for industrial and white collar workers.

SILVER CITY, N. # Large Following To Boost Deers In Regional Battle

If the enthusiasm of Williamsport's fans is a reflection of the eagerness of their basketball team, the Deer basketball team should have little difficulty in securing a berth in the regional "B" finals in Athens.

Williamsport's Blue and Gold Deer cagers will try for the final round of the regionals at 8 p. m. Thursday when they challenge Glenford of Perry County in Ohio University gymnasium in Athens.

Pickaway County's sizzling district co-champions will not begin the game unaided. They will have plenty of help from the rooting section.

In fact, more than 700 boosters from Williamsport are on hand to cheer the Deers.

JUD LANMAN, superintendent of the Williamsport school, Wednesday announced he has sold all but 75 of the block of 800 advance tickets issued to his school.

"I'm keeping another 25 tickets on hand for late-deciders," Lanman said. "If they don't sell, then I'll be stuck with them."

"But the way it looks now, I don't think I'll be stuck with too many."

Enthusiastic Williamsport fans already have chartered one bus for the trip to Athens and possibly may use two or three, depending on the size of the buses.

Should Williamsport manage to defeat Glenford Thursday night—and the chances are excellent if the Deers continue their torrid pace—then there will be a mad scramble for tickets on Friday for the regional finals on Saturday night.

Williamsport left Wednesday morning for a pre-regional practice session in the Ohio University gymnasium, Glenford, which won its district title on the Athens court last week, will not be given a practice session on the court before Thursday's game.

DEER BASKETEERS ripped into the regional tournament last Saturday night by collecting a 73-65 victory over the previously highly-touted Liberty Union quintet.

That win climaxed a string of hot-hot district performances for the high-scoring Deers. Williamsport had averaged 81 points in its first three district wins over New Bloomington, Dublin and Midway.

With the district co-championship tucked away safely, the Deers boast a record of 20 and five—including co-championship honors in the Pickaway County basketball league and second place in the Pickaway County tournament.

Glenford, one of the glamor teams of the state, has racked up a record of 29 wins in as many starts this season, although some of those victories were by shaky margins earned only in the last few minutes of play.

Both teams will be almost equal in height during the test, with the Glenford crew boasting a somewhat more sturdy reserve depth.

If Williamsport wins its regional opener Thursday night, the Deers then will meet the winner of a Philo-Waverly match for the regional title Saturday night. The Philo and Waverly tilt will be played Friday night in Athens.

Pritchard Signs At Keystone With Deland Red Hats

Jerry Pritchard, son of Warrant Officer and Mrs. E. L. Pritchard of 115 S. Washington St., is to leave Saturday to begin practice with the Deland Red Hats baseball team of the Florida State League.

Pritchard, who will be 19-years-old on Thursday, has signed on as second baseman for the Class D Red Hat team this season.

The youth was graduated last June by Circleville High School where he was a varsity member of football, basketball and baseball teams.

Pritchard served as shortstop, second baseman and catcher on Tiger teams which racked up their fifth straight South Central Ohio League championship last Spring.

During this winter, Pritchard has studied in the Jack Rossiter school of baseball in Florida. The regular season for his Red Hats is to begin on April 13.

One 'Outsider' Remains In NCAA Tourney

NEW YORK (AP)—The 16 teams that will fight it out for the NCAA basketball championship were decided today with only one "outsider" in the select group.

Six teams—Notre Dame, De Paul, Holy Cross, Seattle, Santa Clara and Lehigh Valley—made it regional finals, scheduled for this week end, Tuesday night.

The big surprise was little Lehigh Valley, which defeated mighty Fordham, 80-67, in Philadelphia as Holy Cross humbled Navy, 87-74.

In another double-header in Ft. Wayne, Ind., Notre Dame advanced at the expense of Eastern Kentucky, 72-57, and De Paul barely nipped Miami of Ohio, 74-72.

Seattle gained its spot by whipping Idaho State, 88-77, in Seattle and Santa Clara topped Hardin-Simmons, 81-56, in Palo Alto.

So the regional lineup for Friday and Saturday looks like this:

At Chicago—Penn vs. Notre Dame and De Paul vs. Indiana.

At Raleigh, N. C.—Wake Forest vs. Holy Cross and Lehigh Valley vs. Louisiana State.

At Manhattan, Kan.—Kansas vs. Oklahoma City and Texas Christian vs. Oklahoma A&M.

At Corvallis, Ore.—Seattle vs. Washington and Santa Clara vs. Wyoming.

The winners will go to Kansas City for the finals the following week end.

Chile, Argentina Girl Cagers Win

SANTIAGO (AP)—Chile defeated Switzerland, 37 to 28, and Argentina edged Mexico, 39 to 34, Tuesday in the world's championship basketball tournament for women.

The victories moved Chile and Argentina into the winner's bracket of the championship round-robin with Brazil, the United States and France, which qualified with earlier victories.

Bomar, Day Due For ABC Trials

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's Jockey-Coopers, featuring Capt. Buddy Bomar and Ned Day in their lineup, will command most of the attention in the American Bowling Congress tournament tonight.

The Jockeys, members of the famed Classic League, will come in with an average of better than 1,000. Their aim, of course, will be to dislodge the Cincinnati Budweiser Beers from the top rung, which they command with 3,106.

CHICAGO (AP)—Willie Hoppe ran his winning streak over Masako Katsura, Japan's three-cushion billiard queen, to three straight blocks by winning Tuesday night's match 50 to 32 in 52 innings.

Sokolsky's These Days

Genovese is now in difficulties with the Attorney General because of deportation proceedings. There ought to be a way of finding out from him or his wife just what happened in the Tresca murder.

Surely, the operators of Murder, Inc., cannot be sentimental about their employers, any more than they are emotionally involved in the tasks they undertook.

Therefore, if any of them wanted to tell or found it advantageous to tell, they could make available the facts of this case, particularly the name of the employer.

Although Tresca was a philosophical anarchist who believed in individual rights and that government was a nuisance, he actually foresaw and fought the peril that now faces us.

He was at least 10 years ahead of his time and became a dangerous person because he was telling tales out of the Communist school. He was not the only one who was gifted with foresight, but his reputation as a radical lent credence to what he said and wrote.

So, he was killed.

The murder of Juliet Poyntz was a strictly inside job, done by the comrades themselves. Who killed General Krivitsky, after he wrote a series of articles for "The Saturday Evening Post," we do not know. But all indications are that Tresca was killed by Murder, Inc., as a professional job.

No one was ever brought to trial for these three murders.

Gamblers Face New Crackdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—Commissioner of Internal Revenue T. Coleman Andrews indicated today prosecution of gamblers for failure to register and buy an occupation stamp will be stepped up.

The Supreme Court on Monday ruled the stamp tax law constitutional.

Andrews said today:

"The action of the Supreme Court will facilitate enforcement of the occupational tax on wagering, since a number of cases involving prosecution under the act have been delayed while the issue of its constitutionality was pending."

Judge Orders Probe Of Vice

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A grand jury investigation of "the breakdown of law enforcement and widespread gambling and vice in Northern Kentucky" was ordered Monday by Federal Judge Mac Swinford.

Judge Swinford told the 16-member jury the investigation had been requested by U. S. District Attorney Claude Stephens.

The judge's instructions were for the grand jurors to make their own individual investigations between now and April 21 and then report to the body as a whole on that date.

Blood Collection Is Red Cross Feature

Anti-Paralysis Serum Made Of Donations

Donors Also Give For Armed Forces And Civilian Use

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of three articles detailing the work of the American Red Cross in the community and in the nation.)

Blood for gamma globulin, the new treatment for the prevention of paralysis in polio, is now being collected through the Columbus regional blood center and through the visits of the Bloodmobile to Pickaway County.

The blood program now has become a four-point program, each phase equal in importance.

Blood is being collected for: daily use in civilian hospitals in the Columbus regional area; whole blood for the wounded in Korea; blood for plasma for the armed forces or for use in any emergency in this country; and now, increased quantities of blood will be processed into serum albumin and gamma globulin fractions, the latter will be used for the prevention of paralysis in polio as well as for the treatment of measles and infectious hepatitis.

While the Red Cross will collect the blood for the important gamma globulin, Red Cross will not distribute or allocate the gamma globulin. Distribution will be done by Ohio State department of health in Ohio and by other state departments of health.

BLOOD COLLECTED in Pickaway County for gamma globulin will be sent to a commercial laboratory for fractionation. It then goes to a national stockpile to be allocated to communities where it is most needed.

Allocation will be made by the office of defense mobilization and not by Red Cross.

The allocation of gamma globulin to the office of defense mobilization is similar to the policy of allocation of whole blood to the defense department.

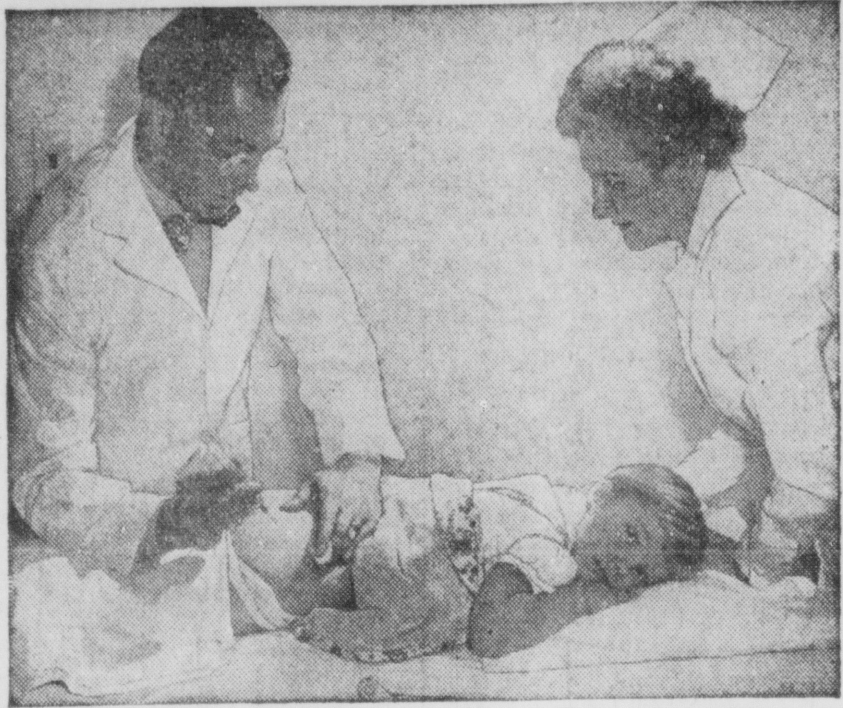

Once the whole blood is turned over to the defense department, that government agency has complete control. The task of Red Cross is to furnish the blood through the collecting agencies.

THE NATIONAL Research Council has named an "expert panel" of physicians which will be the authority for developing certain rules and standard practices for the use and allocation of gamma globulin by the office of defense mobilization.

Red Cross officials point out the use of gamma globulin in the prevention of polio is a "stop-gap" until such time as an effective vaccine can be developed.

Estimated cost to the American Red Cross for collecting and processing the blood and packaging the serum is $7 million.

An important part of the local Pickaway County budget will go toward this amount. In addition,

A little girl is inoculated with gamma globulin to immunize her against the paralyzing effects of polio. Tests with the blood plasma derivative last summer showed that one dose protects a child for about one month. Part of the blood collected by the Red Cross is now going into the production of gamma globulin for use in polio epidemics.

the cost of maintaining the bloodmobile unit for each visit and the share of cost in operating the equipment; the regional center is part of the local budget.

Eight visits a year are made to the county by the bloodmobile unit for the collection of blood. The goal for each visit is set for 150 pints of blood.

Next visit to Pickaway County will be made in Ashville, between noon and 6 p. m. on March 23. The visit is being sponsored by Ashville Community Club and will be held in the basement of the Evangelical United Brethren church.

By participation in the Columbus regional blood program, every citizen of Pickaway County is able to have free whole blood in any local hospital. No charge is ever made for the Red Cross blood.

Hospitals charge an administration fee of approximately $5 a pint of blood, but there is no charge for the actual blood itself.

Yankee Pilots Mum On Why No Defense

American Jet Flier Chutes Safely After Incident Over Germany

WIESBADEN (AP)—Two U. S. fighter pilots fired at by two Communist Mig-15 jets over the U. S. zone of Germany said today they were attacked without warning, but did not fire back.

Asked at a news conference why they did not shoot back in self-defense, one replied: "We'd rather not answer that question." The two pilots gave a personal account of the shooting down of one American jet by two Soviet-made jets from the Czech Air Force. It was the first time Red aircraft had shot down an American plane over U. S.-held territory. The grave incident of the East-West cold war spread alarm over Western Europe.

Lt. Warren G. Brown of Henderson, Colo., parachuted to safety from his bullet-riddled thunderjet. His companion, Lt. Donald C. Smith, of Marysville, O., fled from the attack scene seven to 10 miles inside the U. S. zone, near the Czechoslovak frontier without being hit.

"WE WERE circling back and forth about seven to ten miles inside our line when these two planes jumped us," Smith said.

Brown added: "The planes crossed in front of us. We started to circle to the left toward the west. One of these planes fell in behind me. He followed me for three or four circuits. I was a little bit confused as to his intention and I tried some evasive action. Then he opened fire and hit my plane.

"It flipped over on its back and I found myself in a dive. It seemed pretty well shot up and I had trouble controlling it. I headed back toward our own base (Fuerstfeldbruck, near Munich).

"Then I noticed that my right stabilizer was shot up. Then I lost my right tip tank and noted my wing was coming apart.

"I didn't think I could control it much longer, so I radioed Smith that I was abandoning the craft, which I did. I made a successful parachute landing."

Brown's injuries were only minor scratches. The mustached 30-year-old veteran, who had flown

Ordinary Hen Has Secret To Top Efficiency

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Scientists point to the chicken as the heroine of the barnyard. They said if all farm creatures would become as efficient as the hen Americans need never worry about eating well.

Forty years ago the average hen produced about 87 eggs as a year's work. Today each hen turns out about 94 eggs in a year.

Her efficiency increased in still another way. She used to require 9.25 pounds of feed for a dozen eggs; now she gets the same results on only 6.9 pounds.

These figures came out today at the National Farm Chemurgic Council meeting, a conference of farm leaders, industrialists and scientists on how to make farming more profitable and efficient.

Dr. R. M. Bethke, director of research for a feed producer, said the chicken also has increased in meat-producing efficiency about one-fourth. Broilers now are turned out about three-fourths of the time it formerly required, he said.

Kored Pledges Victory In War

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda published a message today from North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung stating that he plans to "localize" the Korean War by winning it.

The message in the Communist party organ said: "The Korean people will be victorious. This means that the conflagration which threatens to engulf neighboring countries and to seize the entire world will be localized."

Bill Evans Is Named Winner Of 1953 Bob Bowsher Trophy

A massive young giant whose smoothness and agility on a basketball court belie his size has been singled out for the highest individual award in Pickaway County basketball play.

He is Bill Evans, 18-year-old star pivotman for the 1953 tournament championship Pickaway Township High School team, winner of the 1953 Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy award.

Evans was a standout selection for this year's Bowsher Trophy award, an annual presentation made by The Circleville Herald.

The husky Pickaway Township cager was named for the singular honor by the 11 coaches of Pickaway County. His name appeared on 10 of the 11 ballots.

BALLOTING by the coaches and the tabulation of the votes were conducted in utmost secrecy, based entirely upon play in the 1953 Pickaway County tournament.

Even so, local fans who saw the Pirates play in this year's tournament probably will feel little surprise in the selection of Evans.

That is because the towering lad stood out so prominently in the qualifications necessary for winning the Bowsher Trophy—those of sportsmanship, cooperation, teamwork and attitude toward the game.

In the county tournament, Evans fulfilled those requirements easily, his cool-headedness, teamwork and rooklike steadiness making him a pillar of strength for the ultimate champion Pirate quintet.

Evans' name will be carved onto

BILL EVANS
1953 Bowsher Trophy Winner

the Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy below those of a quintet of other top athletes named for the honor since 1948.

Williamsport's Jim Picklesimer was the first to have his name fitted on the rotating trophy, winning the honor in the 1948 county tournament. Fans who saw that tournament remember Picklesimer as the standout player.

BOB PONTIUS of Walnut was the second winner of the trophy, outdistancing his competitors for the award with his outstanding play and cooperation.

Lanky Bill Rowley of Darby won the 1950 Bowsher award. Rowley

was pegged from the start of the tourney as the winner.

Taking the 1951 award was Lester Sanders of Monroe Township, whose steady, reliable game allowed the Indian quint to collect its first championship in the school's history.

And Harley Evans, sharpshooting ace from Atlanta, won the 1952 Bowsher Trophy award by an almost unanimous decision. Atlanta's Evans was named on all 11 ballots in the voting and won the honor with a total of 102 possible 110.

Pickaway's Bill Evans was selected for the top honor this year by being named on 10 of the 11 ballots and earning 78 points out of a possible 110.

Evans was winner by a comfortable margin over Teammate Vic Pontius and Darby Township's Big Jim Grabill, each of whom was named on nine of the 11 ballots.

WHAT MADE Evans this year's top choice for the Bowsher Trophy?

He was not a standout scorer during the tournament, ranking several names below the leaders in that department. He was not a colorful player, no flash and glitter to his performance.

But Evans was reliable. He was steady. He was someone to lean on, to keep things flowing smoothly and make plays click.

Evans fouled and was fouled during this year's tournament. But those were taken in stride as part of the game—no protests, wry looks or stiff-legged swagers.

The Pickaway Township youth, who celebrated his 18th birthday last Thursday, was pegged for the Bowsher award because he fulfilled the role of a good sportsman, his cooperation and teamwork were excellent and his attitude toward the game was undeniably superior.

County coaches voting in the selection were asked to pick the player who best fitted those requirements. Evans was their boy.

THE BOB BOWSHER Memorial Trophy is awarded annually by The Herald in an effort to promote good sportsmanship, teamwork and cooperation among the players in the county tournaments.

The award was originated in 1948 as a memorial to Bob Bowsher, one of the first star dead heroes to be returned to native Pickaway County soil for burial.

Bob Bowsher was a chunky athlete in Circleville high school who played the game—almost any sport—down to the line in an effort to win, but foremost with the effort to win cleanly.

Lass Tries Hard To Out-Talk Thugs

CLEVELAND (AP)—Little Nancy Britzman stayed home with a cold, and listen to the story she can tell her schoolmates today:

Three masked gunmen sneaked into her house and threatened to shoot her dad, Nathan Britzman, if he didn't give them money.

Nancy, 10 years old and blonde, stood right up to the bandits and told them, "There isn't any money hidden in our house and I ought to know."

The impressed robbers tied up Nancy, her dad and her 62-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Kaplavya, with strips of torn sheets.

Nancy untied her bonds, then freed her dad and grandma. But the bandits escaped with $825.

OK Of Bohlen Is Held Up

Senate Also Stalls Anti-Soviet Writ

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's nomination of Charles E. Bohlen to be ambassador to Russia faced further delay today against a background of increasing tension in U. S. - Communist relations.

And the ceremonious funeral of Joseph Stalin was followed by the unceremonious burial by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of an Eisenhower-proposed resolution to condemn Russia for "perverting" wartime agreements by enslaving free peoples.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said the shooting down of an American fighter plane by two Russian-made Mig jets in the American zone of Germany emphasized a need for speeding Bohlen to Moscow, as urged last week by the State Department, to report on and analyze such developments.

The plan of GOP leaders had been for the Senate to act on Bohlen's nomination today. But Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) postponed until next Tuesday a scheduled vote by the foreign relations committee. He acted at the request of Senators Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Knowland (R-Calif.).

AT THE SAME session, the committee voted to postpone action indefinitely on the anti-enslavement resolution urged by Eisenhower. There were no signs it would be revived anytime soon, if at all.

The Senate Democratic Policy Committee had endorsed unanimously the original administration-sponsored resolution. But the Democrats balked when the Republican majority on the foreign relations committee added an amendment saying assuage of the resolution would not mean Congress was passing on the validity or the invalidity of the big power agreements made in World War II.

That ended all prospect of the resolution's passage by the "substantial unanimity" sought by Secretary of State Dulles.

In view of uncertainty over what may happen inside Russia, most senators now agree with Sen. George (D-Ga.) that it is best to hold up any resolution for the time being lest criticism of the Soviet government unify the people behind Premier Malenkov.

Britain Loses Oil Legal Joust

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. (AIOC) today lost the first round of its battle to gain possession of 5,000 tons of disputed Iranian oil brought here by the tanker Mirella but immediately announced plans to carry the case to Rome.

A Venice court ruled that the oil had been purchased legally by the Supor Co. of Rome, charterers of the Mirella, from the Iranian National Oil Co. The tribunal ordered the release of the oil to the Rome organization. In London, an AIOC spokesman announced: "We are immediately initiating proceedings in the Rome court."

Permit Granted

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board announced today the granting of a renewal permit for industrial waste discharge to the Heine Packing Co. of Logan.

TWO CZECHOSLOVAKIAN MIG-15 jets attacked and shot down a U. S. F-84 jet plane 15 miles within the U. S. zone of Germany, near Regensburg, Bavaria (1). A second U. S. jet on the same mission landed at Fuerstfeldbruck airbase near Munich. The U. S. government is making the "strongest possible" protests to Red Czechoslovakia and regards the incident as probably the most serious of its sort since the cold war began. Last week a Polish air force pilot flew his Russian-built MIG jet fighter from behind the iron curtain and landed at Bornholm (2) in the Baltic sea. Poland has demanded that the Danish government return that plane.

Effort To Prevent Lausche's Re-Election Killed By Panel

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Democrat's proposal to put a constitutional limit on the number of years a governor could hold office was killed Tuesday night by an Ohio legislative committee.

The proposal by Rep. Michael J. Crosser (D-Cuyahoga) to limit the governor to four terms, or eight years, frankly was aimed at Ohio's four-term Democratic governor, Frank J. Lausche ball, basketball, track and boxing. His forte was good sportsmanship, teamwork and cooperation.

Evans, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Evans of Kingston Road 1, is a senior with four years as a varsity basketball player.

In school, the 6'2", 202-pound lad is a straight "B" average student in classical course subjects, preparing himself for college.

EVANS HAS announced his wishes to enter college next fall, although he has not yet selected the school.

Last fall, the lad was a star member of the Pickaway six-man football team in its first year of operation. He now has only one principal hobby, that of sports, with basketball and football heading the list.

His mother, when asked personal information about the youth, Wednesday, said he is always considerate in helping around the house, where there is much work to be done.

"He's always full of mischief," Mrs. Evans said, then quickly adding "but I wouldn't give two cents for a boy who isn't."

Two other Evans youngsters, Marilyn and Peg, boosted the Pirate team this year as cheerleaders.

Evans has piled up a long list of extra-curricular activities in school in music, dramatics, scholarship exams and in athletics.

He was president of his junior class and will be graduated this Spring as treasurer of his senior class.

Presentation of the Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy is hoped to be made later during a special honor banquet for the championship Pirate team given by Charles Giff in Court-Main restaurant.

Congressman Sets Mid-April As Tax-Cut Bill Vote Time

WASHINGTON (U)—A bill to cut personal income taxes 10 per cent starting July 1 appeared likely today to face a test vote in the house in mid-April.

Whether it will be confined solely to reducing the tax rate or be opened to all sorts of amendments, including one to increase the personal exemption from $600 to $1,000, may depend on the attitude of the Republican leadership of the House.

President Eisenhower's position, is opposed to the bill in any form until the federal budget is balanced or close to being balanced.

Tired of waiting or the leadership-controlled rules committee to send the bill to the floor, Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) announced Tuesday he will force a vote if the rules committee doesn't act by April 15.

Reed, sponsor of the bill and chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which approved it on Feb. 16, can demand a vote on the bill at any time. But if he does so, it would be open to all sorts of changes dealing with personal income taxes.

RATHER THAN risk opening the measure to amendments, Reed has requested the rules committee to protect it with a special rule. His request twice has been rejected, and Chairman Leo A. Ryan (R-Ill.) has said he doesn't intend to alter his position until he is certain the federal Treasury can stand it.

"I am not going to wait any longer than April 15," Reed told newsmen. "If the bill gets out of hand on the floor because I can't get a rule barring amendments, it

City Is Ending Sewer Trouble At Cannery

Circleville has taken its first big step toward complying with a state order for processing waste from the Winor Canning Co.

And the problem at the local cannery will lead into a complete cleanup on the city's sewage lines this Summer.

Circleville recently was advised by the state to correct a sewage problem at the cannery where excess waste was causing sanitary line difficulties.

Ervin Leist, manager of the city's sewage department, said Roto-Rooter of Lancaster has completed cleaning out 1,300 feet of 10-inch sewer on Town St. for $325. The cleaned sewer extends from Washington St. to Court St.

LEIST SAID the cleaned sewer line is now capable of carrying 450 gallons of waste per minute.

However, Leist added, a 10-minute rainfall producing one-half inch of rain would cause a runoff of 350 gallons per minute from the cannery roof; and when in production, the cannery will send 200 gallons of waste per minute through the lines.

"That means," Leist said, "that if a heavy rain comes up when the plant is canning the line would be flooded."

Therefore, the city has advised Winor that it must separate its storm runoff from its process waste. If that is done, the city will then be in a position to handle the plant's process waste.

Leist added that some of the roof water of the plant already is being diverted into the storm sewer network.

Meanwhile, the city's public utilities board is planning a survey for this Summer to eliminate all storm water from the sanitary sewer lines.

Leist said city ordinance 2023, passed in September, 1939, has penalty clauses for diverting storm water into sanitary lines.

Adkins, Clark Appointed To Planning Unit

Mayor Ed Amey Wednesday announced two more appointments to the city zoning and planning commission and said efforts will be made to have the organization meet within the next few days.

The commission is expected to play a major role in large-scale city expansion moves.

New members appointed to the group were Bob Adkins and Pete Clark. Amey had previously announced the appointment of Milton Patterson.

The Mayor said all three have accepted their appointments and that he expects a fourth acceptance sometime late Wednesday or Thursday.

The decks will then be cleared, Amey pointed out, for a meeting of the commission to take on the new members and to study the task ahead of it.

Les May, chairman of the commission, has frequently announced his desire to retire from the post because of the press of personal business. Other commission members have signified their willingness to yield their jobs to the new members.

Yankee Pilots Mum On Why No Defense

Asked if it were possible that the alien pilots thought the American planes were in Czech territory, Smith answered: "Of course. It's always possible that they could make a mistake, but we were not."

WHILE THE news conference was being held at the U. S. Air Force headquarters here, however, Bavarian Interior Minister Wilhelm Hoegner said Munich police had reported five frontier violations by Czech planes Tuesday.

U. S. Ambassador George Wadsworth in Prague was ordered by Washington to draft and deliver "the strongest possible protest" to the Czech Communist regime.

American High Commissioner James Bryant Conant in Germany denounced the "wanton shooting" and warned that U. S. forces here "will know how to deal with future incursions of this type."

Europeans were quick to note the Communist aerial attack occurred just a day after Georgi Malenkov, the new leader of the Soviet world, had promised in Moscow to continue Stalin's "policy of preserving peace."

Prague radio ignored the shooting in its news broadcasts Tuesday night but L'Humanite, organ of the French Communist party, published this Red alibi:

"Two American jet fighter planes flew over territory of the democratic republic of Czechoslovakia yesterday."

"Having refused reply to orders, they were pursued by Czechoslovak planes. One of the American planes was hit and shot down in Bavaria, very near the Czech frontier."

West German frontier police said today they had witnessed numerous cases last month of Czech planes flying several miles into Bavaria at great heights. They said the flights apparently were connected with Czech military maneuvers then underway.

Motorists Reminded Tag Data Essential

Motorists were reminded Wednesday they must know their taxing district before they get their automobile license tags.

Deputy Registrar Joe Brink said failure to give correct information on this detail has caused the office of motor vehicle registration considerable trouble.

"Before people come in for their tags," he said, "they should be very sure as to what city, village or township they live in. Many, for example, come in and say they live in the City of Circleville when they really live in Circleville Township—outside the city limits."

"Still other, come in and say they just don't know. All this information should be obtained before they come for the tags."

Brink said a great deal of confusion results when money is distributed to the wrong taxing district through incorrect information given by motorists.

Deputy Solves Local Theft With Arrest

Four Columbus men were arrested early Wednesday near Shadeville by Pickaway County authorities and unknowingly solved a theft here.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff said he and Dwight Radcliff, his nephew, were travelling to Columbus early Wednesday to pick up a prisoner.

On the way, they noticed an auto ahead being operated strangely with the lights flickering off and on. Radcliff stopped the auto and held the four occupants for Franklin County authorities for investigation.

Later, Franklin County authorities contacted the local office to ask whether a local man had reported thefts of a check and a girl's coat.

RADCLIFF said he did not know at the time, but later checked the record and saw where Richard Clifton of Circleville had made a report.

Clifton told the sheriff's office someone had stolen a check for $460 and one for $90, some mail and a girl's coat from his auto Monday night. The report had not been made public.

Franklin County authorities then said the four men Radcliff had arrested had the $460 check and the coat. The men said they were returning from Wellston when Radcliff nabbed them.

GUESSING CONTINUES

THE PARALYTIC STROKE that removed Stalin from the earthly scene started the greatest epidemic of guessing the world has ever seen. Throughout the world the question continues to be: "What next?"

Diplomats, long accustomed to dealing with the Russian enigma, can only make informed guesses as to what the repercussions will be. The speed with which Stalin's successor, Malenkov, was named is in itself significant. It would seem that the stage was set for the change in command long before Stalin's fatal illness was announced.

For months Western intelligence sources interpreted tremendous stirrings in Russia as a Stalin-directed housecleaning preparing for his heir-apparent. There is a strong possibility that he was a very sick man, directing these moves from an invalid's bed. There seems to be little reason to doubt that Malenkov was selected by Stalin to be his successor.

Naming of Nikolai Bulganin as war minister is being interpreted variously in world chancelleries. There had been rumors in recent months that the Kremlin feared the army was gaining too great strength in the top Moscow hierarchy.

Barring complications in Russia or the satellites, Malenkov will undoubtedly start to make his weight felt internationally with little delay. Malenkov is described as a bull, contrasted to the description of Stalin as a fox—aggressive, ruthless and less considerate of the consequences of his actions.

There is the possibility that Stalin was a stricken before he finished the job of riveting his successor securely in place. If so, there should be some indication of this before long.

A NEW APPROACH

IT HAS BEEN difficult for the American people to understand why the United States hasn't made more substantial progress in its efforts to make friends among the nations of Europe. Faced by the menace of Communism, it was taken for granted that these countries would join hands with the U. S. and close up ranks without question. This has not come about.

In the past, Washington has asked European nations to forget differences among themselves, to forego national interests and admit their own helplessness in the face of danger—to become to all intents and purposes subjects of Uncle Sam.

That may be stating the case too strongly, but that is why European nations have been dragging their feet in cooperating with the United States in opposing Communism. Apparently there is to be a new approach in wooing European interest in fighting Communism. Apparently no longer will the U. S. play the role of guardian angel for other nations while expecting them to take up arms at Washington's direction.

These Days

When I read of the quarrels between Mr. and Mrs. Vito Genovese, I could not help but recall that Carlo Tresca, radical editor and anti-Stalinist, was shot down in the streets of New York in January, 1943, and that nothing has ever been done about it. Tresca was killed by an assassin hired for the job from Murder, Inc.

I had known Tresca well in the days of the I.W.W. when he, Elizabeth Gurley Glynn, Big Bill Haywood, Emma Goldman, Alexander Berkman and others were enthusiastic philosophic anarchists, preaching doctrines of human liberty which would today in most parts of the world be regarded as conservative, if not reactionary. Tresca hated Soviet Russia, as did Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn became a leader of the Communist Party and has now been sentenced to prison.

Tresca was dramatic and fierce, with a sort of Svengali appearance. Yet, he was a deeply sincere man and was killed for it. According to Guenther Reinhardt, in "Crime Without Punishment," Gerhart Eisler had told him that Tresca would be killed before it happened. And Reinhardt ties the murder up with Tresca's fight in the Victory Council and the OWI against the excessive employment of Communists in those organizations.

The Victory Council, which the Communists had infiltrated and controlled, was an OWI-sponsored organ of foreign language newspapers designed to stimulate pro-World War II propaganda.

The OWI, at that time, was motivated perhaps by the thought that Russia was our ally, but it got fouled up by overdoing friendship to a point of subservience. The Victory Council, instead of being dominated by the OWI, was the organ of the Kremlin; and Tresca became a nuisance. John Roman, an agent of the Russian Secret Police, ran the Victory Council, in spite of the fact that it was paid for by the American taxpayer.

Carlo Tresca was killed by being shot at from a car on West 15th Street. The car was abandoned. The ownership of the car was never satisfactorily traced. Whatever suspects the police found, the lines petered out. The murder has never been solved, just as the murders of Juliet Poyntz and of General Krivitsky have not been solved. It is, however, spoken of freely in the Communist underground that Murder, Inc., was hired to do a professional job on Tresca.

How Genovese's name came into the case is described by Reinhardt as follows:

"... In the fall of 1944, the Brooklyn District Attorney's office was given definite information as to who had supervised the Tresca killing, but the authorities neglected to follow up. The man who gave the information was Ernest Rupolo, a convicted gunman. He told the D.A.'s office that Vito Genovese, a Murder, Inc., jobholder, had set up the Tresca murder. Genovese, then serving as an American Military Government interpreter in Italy, was brought back to face another murder charge that Rupolo had pinned on him, but was never bothered with the Tresca case at all."

When the Bowel "Telescopes"

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A WEAKENED bowel can sometimes act like a telescope—I mean the old-fashioned type with the sliding sections. When one section of the bowel slides inside another, the condition is known as intussusception.

This disorder can occur at any age, but is more frequent in children less than two years old. As a rule, it is seen in baby boys from five to nine months old. It is not uncommon in old age either.

This telescoping of the bowel may disappear by itself, with the symptoms returning a few weeks later.

Usually the child has a sudden pain in the abdomen. He cries out, may vomit, and then suddenly feels well again. A little later he may be seized with another attack, and these attacks of vomiting and pain become more frequent.

Usually, the child is somewhat listless, but may be restless. He is hungry and tries to eat, but has difficulty keeping the food down. The stools at first may be normal, but later the child just passes blood and mucus from his bowels. At first this blood looks like currant jelly, but as the disease progresses, red blood is evident.

Telescoping may take place in the large bowel or small bowel, and sometimes at the place where these join. The turning of the bowel within itself causes a bowel obstruction and the bleeding. Many times a telescoped bowel may be seen protruding from the rectum.

A physician can recognize this disease in some cases by examining the patient carefully. The telescoped portion feels like a tumor as he presses his hand on the abdomen.

A surgical operation can correct the bowel weakness. Before it is attempted, however, a definite diagnosis has to be made. Usually the method is to give an enema containing barium and then taking x-rays. The exact location of the telescoped bowel can be seen on the x-ray picture.

Once a diagnosis is made, surgery should be performed immediately to reduce the obstruction, for the bowel may become gangrenous. In many cases, however, the barium itself is successful in reducing the telescoping, and makes surgery unnecessary.

Any child who suddenly complains of severe cramps, who vomits and passes some blood from the rectum, should be taken to see a physician immediately. The visit may save the child's life.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

R. K.: I had a metabolism test and was told it was extremely low. What would cause this?

Answer: A low metabolism is often caused by lack of thyroid secretion. Usually persons suffering from this condition have dry, sparse hair, the skin is thick and dry and they feel extremely sluggish and tired. The giving of thyroid extract under a doctor's supervision helps this condition.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

SATURDAY was a busy day, since the store was opening on Monday. Carol felt too tired to join the others for supper. She changed into a loose cotton housecoat, thrust her tired feet into slippers, and was getting herself something to eat when the doorbell rang. She smoothed her hair down with her hands quickly.

"Derek!" she exclaimed, when she opened the door.

He smiled apologetically. "I'm sorry to have arrived so late, but my plane just got in. Peter Quinell told me where to find you. Is everything okay?"

"Fine," she said, smiling. "Come along in."

The French windows were open onto the balcony, the sea breeze blew in gently, the room was softly lighted.

"This is quite a place," he said, looking around him.

She nodded. "I like it. I was just cooking supper. Won't you join me?"

"Well, I did eat on the plane, but that was some time ago. I was going to ask you to come out and have supper with me, but this would be easier."

She laid the bridge table, scrambled eggs and grilled frankfurters, made a pot of coffee, and while she worked in the kitchenette he leaned in the doorway, talking about the store, what she thought of the new season's stock, how she liked her fellow employees, her impression of Palm Beach. He didn't mention Theima.

"You're a good little cook. You'd make some guy a wonderful wife," he said presently.

She laughed at him. "Just because I can cook?"

"No, not just because you can cook." He caught her in his arms and held her closely, kissing her lips. She let him kiss her and was aware again of that sense of physical attraction she'd felt before when she was near him. He was big, handsome, and even when he kissed her—more so when he kissed her—she knew he was nice. His kisses helped that ache of loneliness and frustration that was nagging at her, an ache she couldn't explain, which was nonsense, anyway. But presently she slipped out of his arms.

"The frankfurters are scorching. I don't think the most romantic male enjoys burned frankfurters," she said.

"No, a man wants everything, kisses and frankfurters, just done to a turn. Betty Ann's always telling me that men expect the earth," he agreed, grinning.

"How is Betty Ann?" she asked, as she piled the scrambled eggs into the center of a dish and arranged the sausages around them.

"Still goofy about that Felton character. Has he turned up here, by the way?" He asked that overcasually.

She felt oddly embarrassed. She turned away towards the oven to get the warmed plates. "Yes, he's down here on a job."

"You've been seeing much of him?"

She shook her head. "I saw him the day he arrived. He came to report to his boss, Julie Gallet, and I was lunching with her on the beach. And then, the other night, when I was at the Patio with a party, he was there with Julie."

Derek raised his dark eyebrows. "Useful when you can bring your chauffeur in to act as your escort. I wonder if he gets paid overtime." His voice was harsh, unfriendly.

She laughed. "I'll have to ask him!"

She put the supper on the table, but although they chatted pleasantly throughout the meal she felt there was something on his mind, something he wanted to talk to her about, but couldn't bring himself to begin. They were smoking cigarettes over coffee when he leaned both his elbows on the table and said abruptly, "Mind if I talk to you about something pretty personal, Carol?"

"No, no, of course not."

"It's about Theima—Mrs. Felton. I'm, he hesitated and lit another cigarette, "in a bit of a spot about her."

"Yes?" she asked quietly.

"I like her, or at least I did," he hesitated, "like her very much indeed. She seemed a rather wonderful person and she said she was lonely and unhappy. I did my best to show her a good time, both on the boat and in New York. But she," he hesitated again, his good-looking face coloring in embarrassment, "seems to imagine I was more serious about her than I meant to be."

She remembered what Betty Ann had said: "She's out to marry Derek." Betty Ann had begged her to make a play for him herself. It had seemed a fantastic suggestion at the time, but now it didn't seem so fantastic. He was looking across the table at her now, his dark-grey eyes admiring her and pleading with her to understand.

She asked slowly, "You're not in love with Mrs. Felton?"

He shook his head. "Maybe for a few days I thought I was. I admit I was flattered by her interest in me. She made me feel—well, as though she needed me. I may have said more than I intended to..."

We were at the El Morocco one night, and we'd had drinks and champagne. Heck, I thought, if she can keep her head so can I. Frankly, I don't drink much, but a fellow doesn't like to be outdone by a woman." He paused, stubbed out his cigarette and lit another. She noticed that his hand was unsteady.

He cleared his throat and went on nervously. "The next day when I called at the hotel to take her to lunch at the Stork Club she sent down a message for me to come up to her suite. I went up and she threw her arms around my neck. I blushed as he said it. "She seemed to think," he cleared his throat again, "I'd asked her to marry me the night before."

"And you hadn't, Derek?"

"I hadn't. I swear I hadn't. I may have had a drink or two too many but I know I didn't ask her to marry me. We may have talked marriage. I remember saying that one day she'd make another man as happy as obviously she'd made her husband. The sort of thing a fellow does say."

"Like you said to me that I'd make some man a good wife because I could scramble an egg," Carol smiled. "Only I'm not going to take you up on it, Derek."

"I rather wish you would," he said quietly. "Only that Felton character sticks to my gutlet. He followed you over here, didn't he? I asked you before if you were in love with him."

"And I said I wasn't," she answered coolly.

"I know, but," she saw his hands clench on the table, "Theima told me there had been something between you. Everyone at Felton's had been talking about it. I gathered it was chiefly because of you his uncle kicked him out; she said you had admitted to her that he'd visited you in your flat."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind

the news

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson has been shocked by his discovery that the nation's armed forces lack the two most effective weapons in modern warfare, airplanes and ammunition for the heavy guns. The need for production and replenishment account for his warnings against heavy cuts in the military budget.

General Van Fleet's proposed all-out offensive in Korea, as well as reinforcement of Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa and the French in Indochina, cannot be undertaken until these shortages are remedied.

Wilson, one of the country's top production experts, has delegated routine Pentagon duties to his assistants while he attacks this problem. This preoccupation explains why he has handed the job of defense reorganization to a committee consisting of General Marshall, Admiral Nimitz and General Spaatz.

RED AIR FORCE—Although the exact figures cannot be published, it is believed that the Red's air force has at least five times as many planes as the United States, and that the ratio of jet types is three to one in their favor.

Our airplane deficiencies are due to the fact that the United States virtually shut down this industry after World War II. Besides trusting the Russians during the "good-old-Uncle-Joe" period, we relied too confidently on our supposed supremacy in atomic defense.

The Kremlin, however, did not relax. From 1945 to 1948, the Russians built twelve planes to every one constructed in this country. From 1948 to 1950, they outstripped us by five to one. Even now, with our accelerated program, they are matching our output of approximately 10,000 planes a year.

EXPANSION—Thanks to our trust in Stalin's good faith and the Truman-Johnson economy crusade, the American Air Force fell from a world peak of 273 groups to only two in December, 1946. In that year, Congress appropriated funds for 70 groups as a result of deterioration of relations with Russia.

But Truman refused to spend $800 million of the Air Force allocation, limiting the expansion to 48 groups. Not until the invasion of South Korea in June, 1950, would he agree to the 70-group total insisted on by Pentagon spokesmen and Congress. Subsequently, the maximum was set at 143 groups, which is the present objective.

DEFICIENT—But, and here is the news which shocked Defense Secretary Wilson, in the 29 months since the outbreak of the Korean conflict we have added only 48 groups for a current total of 96. That is an extremely weak aerial armada for a nation which has given so many commitments around the globe.

By Ray Tucker

Worse still, more than half of these units are equipped with obsolete planes, which are useful only for training purposes. Our most serious deficiency is in the jet types. In fact, the Russians have supplied the Chinese in Korea with more jets than Washington has been able to forward to the United Nations forces.

CUTBACKS—Despite the acceleration of the program in the fall of 1950, only about 15,000 planes have been completed to the present moment. That contrasts sharply with the 60,000 turned out annually at the peak of World War II production.

Although it may mean cutbacks in the output of civilian goods, including "Motor Charley's" automobiles, it may be necessary for the Pentagon to demand a minimum production of 20,000 planes a year. Even with that figure, it would be several years before the U. S. could catch up with the USSR.

Baby Parade In Nation Is Quickening

Many Businesses Due To Benefit From Hike In Resulting Trade

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The pace of the baby parade is quickening. Many businessmen, home builders, school boards, and taxpayers had better take note.

The record number of births in the United States last year—and the total so far this year is even higher than a year ago—means bigger markets for baby foods, clothing, diaper services, toys, and baby sitters.

It means, later on, the need for more school rooms, teachers, desks, books, and school buses—and tax expenditures for same.

The continuing shattering of records confounds the experts—perhaps because the experts who expected the postwar baby boom to wane by now mostly belong to an older generation that went in for smaller families. The young couples married since the war are going in for second, third and fourth children.

That accounts for the fact that the total of births continues to rise, even though the number of marriages is declining, because the small baby crops of the depressed thirties are now reaching marrying age.

The National Office of Vital Statistics says more than 3,824,000 babies were born last year, two per cent more than in 1951. Marriages, however, totalled 1,563,971, for a drop of 3.6 per cent for the year. On a population basis, 1952 showed a gain over 1951 of 0.4 per cent per 1,000 persons. Marriages were down 5.7 per cent per 1,000.

The birth rate for third children in a family has gone up 77 per cent since 1940, for fourth children 50 per cent, and for fifth children 27 per cent.

This trend back to larger families is clashing head on with a postwar trend toward smaller houses.

Some families are solving it by such devices as expansion attics, or by adding rooms onto their homes. Others are on the move again.

The building industry is finding the growing family a new shot in the arm for the housing boom. Having sold a young couple a small home a few years back, the building industry now finds the growing family a prospect for a larger house.

Steel Company Shifts Command

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (AP)—Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. today announced Donald W. Lloyd, general superintendent of the Brier Hill Works here for six years, will succeed the late George W. Abel as general superintendent of the firm's Indiana Harbor plant at East Chicago, Ill.

Thomas B. Carpenter, open hearth superintendent at Brier Hill, replaces Lloyd as general superintendent.

James W. Kirkpatrick succeeds Carpenter as Brier Hill open hearth superintendent, and Ernest B. Platt replaces Kirkpatrick as chief metallurgist in the Youngstown district.

Homemade Bomb Barely Noticed

NEW YORK (AP)—A homemade bomb exploded mildly in the Radio City Music Hall yesterday. Its "pop" reportedly attracted the attention of only one person in the audience of about 6,000.

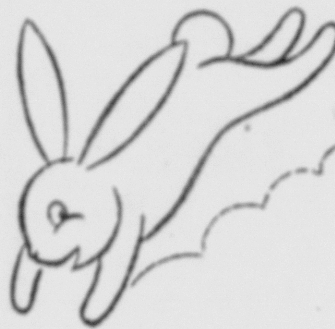

Police later said the bomb, a section of pipe filled with explosive and with a mechanical timing device, apparently was the work of "a publicity seeker who's been doing this for years." The suspect was not further identified.

The bomb, placed in the slit upholstery under a seat, singed the coat of an unidentified woman. She said the explosion was about as loud as an electric light bulb exploding.

Workers Strike

Probe Sought Of Autos For Top Officials

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—A state representative has called for an investigation of the use of state highway department automobiles by the governor and lieutenant governor.

Rep. Clifton L. Caryl (R—Union) termed illegal the assignment of three cars to the governor and one to the lieutenant governor for their private use.

He asked State Auditor James A. Rhodes to investigate. Rhodes said he had turned the matter over to his auditor in the highway department.

Caryl said a 1953 limousine has been ordered for the governor's use and Rhodes not to honor the check to pay for it.

Caryl said it was illegal to use gasoline taxes and automobile license fees to buy cars for the private use of any officials outside the highway department. Voters recently approved a change in the state constitution requiring use of such funds only for highway purposes.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, a Democrat, was unavailable for comment. Rhodes, Caryl and Lt. Gov. John W. Brown are Republicans. Caryl heads the House Highway Committee.

Brown recently discovered he was driving a 1949 Buick although he had been assigned a 1952 model car. Attaches in the governor's office told Brown he could have the 1952 car as soon as the governor got his new automobile. But the governor ordered the 1952 car turned over to Brown immediately.

If driving makes you tired don't blame the road —it's your car's fault!

HERE'S HOW THE NEW '53 PLYMOUTH KEEPS YOU FEELING FRESH—ALL DAY LONG!

The new Plymouth fights the road for you, not with you! True balance designing "irons out" rough roads to give you a boulevard-smooth ride. Also, it takes the struggle out of steering, reduces the fatigue and nervous tension of long hours at the wheel. In the new Plymouth you know you've got complete control of the car and the road—and it's a mighty comforting feeling!

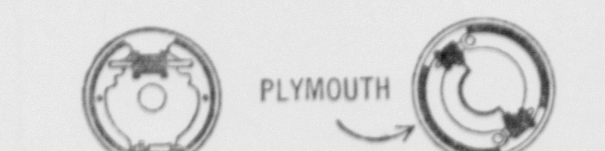

An old-fashioned "Rock of Gibraltar" hood design can keep you tense, on edge—worrying about what you can't see that's directly ahead of the car.

The new Plymouth has a low hood silhouette that lets you see more of the road directly ahead. This is modern styling—with a practical purpose!

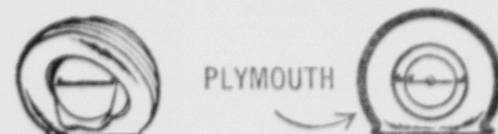

You can't relax, even on a short drive, if you're cramped or crowded in an unnatural seating position. The new Plymouth gives you the last-in comfort and posture protection of Comfort Level seats. Full-depth, full-width coil springs—not the common platform type—always give you correct, cushioned support.

Nothing builds up nervous tension like brakes that give an uncertain, uneven response to the pressure of your foot on the pedal. But with Plymouth's Safe-Guard hydraulic brakes you drive relaxed, confident of smooth, even braking response at every stop. There are two hydraulic brake cylinders in each Plymouth front wheel.

where competitive cars have only one, plus greater areas of Cyclebond brake lining that assure longer, more dependable braking.

How can you relax when you have to worry about blowouts? Plymouth's famous Safety-Rim Wheels protect you with special retaining ridges that hold a deflated tire safely on the rim in case of a blowout. These and many other thoughtful Plymouth features add up to the most carefree, as well as the most comfortable, ride ever built into a low-priced car!

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any suggestion that Congress look for Communists among the clergy is a very hot potato. But, says Sen. McCarthy, who knows a hot potato when he sees it, Congressman Velde juggles it.

That's one difference between these two Republicans—McCarthy of Wisconsin and Velde of Illinois—who nevertheless have some points in common:

McCarthy, 44, and Velde, 43, are both lawyers. Both are judges in their home states. And both are busy beating the bushes for Communists.

Two days ago Velde, chairman but apparently not boss of the House Un-American Activities Committee, which has been searching for Communists in education, made a statement about the possibility of looking for them among clergymen.

The roof fell in. All members of his committee who could be reached were against the idea. And some, but not all clergymen, made statements giving him the icy stare.

Confronted with this reaction, Velde said he may have been misinterpreted. McCarthy, watching Velde try to get his feet out of the flypaper, announced Velde could have any investigation of the clergy all to himself.

"I wasn't aware," said McCarthy, "of his plans to make such an investigation. He has my complete, wholehearted assurance there is not even the remotest possibility of our overlapping."

McCarthy, who began his rise to national attention in 1950 with charges of Communists in the State Department, is still working on the same project. He's chairman of a Senate committee investigating the department's Voice of America.

But there is another difference between these two former judges. McCarthy can walk into a bribe patch and come out acting like a man who landed in a rosebed. Velde sometimes gets scratched up.

"I have been called," said McCarthy recently, "probably every name in the world and it has not been effective against McCarthy. I have been accused of everything except murdering my grandfather."

Velde tangled recently with Mrs. Agnes Meyer, wife of Eugene Meyer, board chairman of the Washington Post. In a talk to a group of school administrators she criticized Velde and plans for investigating schools and colleges.

Velde tried to hit back by saying Mrs. Meyer had been mentioned by Pravda as writing to a Russian journal a letter expressing profound admiration for the people of the Soviet Union.

The Post investigated and found that the writer was not only not Mrs. Meyer but had a different name and lived in Canada. The Post said when Velde was told he had made a serious error, he refused to retract unless Mrs. Meyer retracted what she had said.

The Post story which told all this mentioned the world "libel." The next day Velde retracted. He blamed the error on an employee of his committee. He said later the employee was fired.

McCarthy has done most of his

Blackburn Cautions Against Dangers In Undulant Fever

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway County health commissioner, pointed to undulant fever Wednesday as one of the most serious threats facing farmer and urban customers for their products.

"Brucellosis, the correct medical term for undulant fever, is a highly infectious disease which is rapidly becoming a major problem in the field of public health," Dr. Blackburn warned. "Its continued spread is being taken much too lightly in Pickaway County and elsewhere over the nation."

"It is now the fourth most common communicable disease in the United States. Unless more drastic preventive measures are undertaken it may be classed first in this respect within the next few years."

The disease, also known as Bang's disease and contagious abortion, affects about one fifth of all cattle of breeding age.

ALTOUGH RARELY carried from human to human, Dr. Blackburn said the disease is often caused in humans when the Brucella bacteria enters the body. Cattle, swine and goats are usually the source of infection.

The county health commissioner said persons may contract the disease by the use of infected raw milk, milk products or raw meat. It can also be spread, he added, by direct contact with infected animal tissues during butchering or by handling infected animals to aid delivery of young or remove retained placenta.

Dr. Blackburn estimated Brucellosis is fatal in about two per cent of the severe cases. Symptoms are general weakness, sporadic attacks of fever which may be accompanied by alternate chills and sweats, loss of weight, severe headaches and aches in the arms and back.

Chronic cases, Dr. Blackburn said, are characterized by stiffness of the joints, general weakness, fleeting aches and pains, and prolonged "run down" feeling.

"Prompt and qualified medical treatment," he added, "may keep many cases from becoming chronic. This is one of the diseases where prevention is vitally important, not only to the individual but to the entire community."

"It is possible to avoid the disease by pasteurizing all milk before drinking, and before processing into cheese and butter. The dairyman and his family are in greater danger than the general public, since they often use the raw milk, while the rest of the supply is usually sold pasteurized to the public."

"Persons who handle raw meat should protect themselves by the use of rubber gloves. Veterinarians should use every precaution. Meat should always be well cooked before eating."

As the best and only practical method of controlling the disease, Dr. Blackburn urged full cooperation with any control program operated on county or statewide levels. Such efforts, he pointed out, will be concentrated on controlling the disease at its source, in the animals. The health official continued:

"The Ohio Department of Agriculture, the state veterinarian and your county agent are all ready and willing and anxious to assist farmers in carrying out a control program. Only through this manner can Pickaway County become one of those fortunate counties free of Bang's disease."

"While it is true the county health department is more interested in the human element involved, we also wish to emphasize that a Bang's-free herd of cattle will produce from 20 to 23 per cent more milk, will increase the calf-crop by 40 per cent and will make your herd more profitable by giving the dairyman a much wider field for sale of his products."

In Gomera Island in the Canaries, the inhabitants can communicate with each other by a special whistle language which they use to talk across the deep gorges that are found on the island.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. No delinquent will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD: Having been an across-the-street-observer of our City Hall for the past fifty years, during which I have had an opportunity to see a great deal of the work of our police force, I cannot let Bill McCrady's retirement as Chief of Police pass without at least a brief note of personal appreciation and commendation for the outstanding service which this public official has given to this community.

I have seen our chief at work at all hours of the day and night, under every possible condition and circumstance, in all kinds of difficult situations. He has literally been on the job 24 hours a day and I have never seen, nor heard of, his ever shirking an unpleasant duty.

He has demonstrated time and time again that he has what it takes—and he has taken on some very tough customers in his time. We might say that he has taken them in stride.

He has always been well liked by the youngsters of Circleville—a splendid testimonial in itself. And he has been appreciated by young and old alike ever since the days of his service as a motorcycle patrolman.

He deserves—and I am sure he has—the heartfelt thanks of all thinking citizens for a job well done over a long period of years. He has set a high mark for successors who must follow in his steps. If they do as well for our community as Bill has done we shall all have cause to be thankful.

Israel's Budget Is $605 Million

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel's government has proposed a 216 million pound ($605 million dollars) budget for the coming fiscal year. It promises considerable income tax reductions despite a 25 per cent jump over last year's budget total.

The figures were presented to Parliament yesterday by Finance Minister Levi Eshkol, who said that the nation's foreign exchange controls would not be lifted in the near future. He said the government would curtail services and streamline the civil service in order to permit the tax reductions, including exemption of up to 70 per cent of the cost of living allowances for industrial and white collar workers.

Union Chieftain Declines Action

SILVER CITY, N. M., (AP)—Clinton Jencks, international representative of the Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, has dropped charges against druggist Earl Lett, who slugged him in the eye last week.

The one-blow bout was during a demonstration against production of the controversial movie "Salt of the Earth." Jencks said he was withdrawing assault and battery charges "to keep down trouble."

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP)—Riots against a minority Moslem sect and Foreign Minister Sir Moham-

Special military courts sentenced 36 persons yesterday to punishments ranging from lashes to seven years imprisonment for breaking martial law regulations. Military rule was imposed here last week after six demonstrators were killed by police fire.

New Treatment For PAIN RELIEF of ARTHRITIS & RHEUMATISM

After extensive experimenting, research, and testing, it was found that the pains of Arthritis and Rheumatism could be relieved by a combination of analgesic, diuretic, and vitamins. Patients treated with this combination of drugs, one of which is claimed to have 7 times the pain relieving effect of aspirin, were pleased and surprised at the miraculous, quick relief given.

This new therapy has established the fact that it not only provides effective, comforting relief of arthritic and rheumatic conditions, but also by its prophylactic action, assists in preventing recurrences.

Now many doctors are prescribing and using this combination, and it is proving very beneficial to many people who have been sufferers for years. Ask us about it.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO
CAROL was no longer cool; she was not with anger as she heard Derek tell of what Thelma had accused her and Jason. She wished she had Thelma facing her at that moment. Boss or no boss, job or no job, she would have told her just what she thought of her.

"I told her that once Jason had come up to my flat," she kept her voice carefully controlled. "He drove me home one night in the rain and came up and smoked a cigarette. Maybe two. But that was all."

"That was all?" he exclaimed incredulously.

She nodded. "I hadn't seen him for months until that night of the staff dance."

"But—but the guy's in love with you! He said as much that night on the Mary. Why hadn't you seen him in the interval?"

Carol bit her lip. "He said that when his uncle dismissed him he thought he'd better keep away from everyone connected with the store," she evaded.

He accepted that. "I guess he thought it might cost you your job, and at the time he hadn't anything to offer you. He hasn't now, as far as I can gather."

"No, I suppose not." But again an angry color crept into her cheeks.

He had pushed back his chair and was pacing the floor in long, nervous strides.

"I wish I'd known this before—before," he stopped and ended in a shamefaced way, "I'd made a fool of myself, Carol."

She poured herself another cup of coffee; it was cold, but to drink it gave her something to do.

"Why have you told me all this about yourself and Mrs. Felton?" she asked finally. "What can I do?"

He dropped again into the seat facing her.

"Betty Ann advised me to tell you. Betty Ann said you had what she calls horse sense. She says she liked you as much as any girl she's met."

Large Following To Boost Deers In Regional Battle

If the enthusiasm of Williamsport's fans is a reflection of the eagerness of their basketball team, the Deers basketball team should have little difficulty in securing a berth in the regional "B" finals in Athens.

Williamsport's Blue and Gold Deers cagers will try for the final round of the regionals at 8 p. m. Thursday when they challenge Glenford of Perry County in Ohio University gymnasium in Athens.

Pickaway County's sizzling district co-champions will not begin the game unaided. They will have plenty of help from the rooting section.

In fact, more than 700 boosters from Williamsport are, from throughout the county will be on hand to cheer the Deers.

JUD LANMAN, superintendent of the Williamsport school, Wednesday announced he has sold all but 75 of the block of 800 advance tickets issued to his school.

"I'm keeping another 25 tickets on hand for late-deciders," Lanman said. "If they don't sell, then I'll be stuck with them."

"But the way it looks now, I don't think I'll be stuck with too many."

Enthusiastic Williamsport fans already have chartered one bus for the trip to Athens and possibly may use two or three, depending on the size of the buses.

Should Williamsport manage to defeat Glenford Thursday night—and the chances are excellent if the Deers continue their torrid pace—then there will be a mad scramble for tickets on Friday for the regional finals on Saturday night.

Williamsport left Wednesday morning for a pre-regional practice session in the Ohio U. gymnasium, Glenford, which won its district title on the Athens court last week, will not be given a practice session on the court before Thursday's game.

DEER BASKETEERS ripped into the regional tournament last Saturday night by collecting a 73-65 victory over the previously highly-touted Liberty Union quintet.

That win climaxed a string of red-hot district performances for the high-scoring Deers. Williamsport had averaged 81 points in its first three district wins over New Bloomington, Dublin and Midway.

With the district co-championship tucked away safely, the Deers boast a record of 20 and five—including co-championship honors in the Pickaway County basketball league and second place in the Pickaway County tournament.

Glenford, one of the glamor teams of the state, has racked up a record of 29 wins in as many

One 'Outsider' Remains In NCAA Tourney

NEW YORK (AP)—The 16 teams that will fight it out for the NCAA basketball championship were decided today with only one "outsider" in the select group.

Six teams—Notre Dame, De Paul, Holy Cross, Seattle, Santa Clara and Lebanon Valley—made the regional finals, scheduled for this week end, Tuesday night.

The big surprise was little Lebanon Valley, which defeated mighty Fordham, 80-67, in Philadelphia as Holy Cross humbled Navy, 87-74.

In another double-header in Ft. Wayne, Ind., Notre Dame advanced at the expense of Eastern Kentucky, 72-57, and De Paul barely nipped Miami of Ohio, 74-72.

Seattle gained its spot by whipping Idaho State, 88-77, in Seattle and Santa Clara toppled Hardin-Simmons, 81-56, in Palo Alto.

So the regional lineup for Friday and Saturday looks like this:

At Chicago—Penn vs. Notre Dame and De Paul vs. Indiana.

At Raleigh, N. C.—Wake Forest vs. Holy Cross and Lebanon Valley vs. Louisiana State.

At Manhattan, Kan.—Kansas vs. Oklahoma City and Texas Christian vs. Oklahoma A&M.

At Corvallis, Ore.—Seattle vs. Washington and Santa Clara vs. Wyoming.

The winners will go to Kansas City for the finals the following week end.

Chile, Argentina Girl Cagers Win

SANTIAGO (AP)—Chile defeated Switzerland, 37 to 28, and Argentina edged Mexico, 39 to 34, Tuesday in the world's championship basketball tournament for women.

The victories moved Chile and Argentina into the winner's bracket of the championship round-robin with Brazil, the United States and France, which qualified with earlier victories.

Bomar, Day Due For ABC Trials

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's Jockey Coopers, featuring Capt. Buddy Bomar and Ned Day in their lineup, will command most of the attention in the American Bowling Congress tournament tonight.

The Jockeys, members of the famed Classic League, will come in with an average of better than 1,000. Their aim, of course, will be to dislodge the Cincinnati Budweiser Beers from the top rung, which they command with 3,106.

Pritchard Signs At Keystone With Deland Red Hats

Jerry Pritchard, son of Warrant Officer and Mrs. E. L. Pritchard of 115 S. Washington St., is to leave Saturday to begin practice with the Deland Red Hats baseball team of the Florida State League.

Pritchard, who will be 19-years-old on Thursday, has signed on as second baseman for the Class D Red Hat team this season.

The youth was graduated last June by Circleville High School where he was a varsity member of football, basketball and baseball teams.

Pritchard served as shortstop, second baseman and catcher on Tiger teams which racked up their fifth straight South Central Ohio League championship last Spring.

During this winter, Pritchard has studied in the Jack Rossiter school of baseball in Florida. The regular season for his Red Hats is to begin on April 13.

Miss Katsura, of Tokyo, won the opening block Monday, 50 to 42, and Hoppe took Monday's second block, 50 to 35, then won 50 to 40 in Tuesday's first test.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Commissioner of Internal Revenue T. Coleman Andrews indicated today prosecution of gamblers for failure to register and buy an occupation stamp will be stepped up.

The Supreme Court on Monday ruled the stamp tax law constitutional.

Andrews said today: "The action of the Supreme Court will facilitate enforcement of the occupational tax on wagering, since a number of cases involving prosecution under the act have been delayed while the issue of its constitutionality was pending."

Judge Orders Probe Of Vice

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A grand jury investigation of "the breakdown of law enforcement and widespread gambling and vice in Northern Kentucky" was ordered Monday by Federal Judge Mac Swinford.

Judge Swinford told the 16-member jury the investigation had been requested by U. S. District Attorney Claude Stephens.

The judge's instructions were for the grand jurors to make their own individual investigations between now and April 21 and then report to the body as a whole on that date.

Genovese is now in difficulties with the Attorney General because of deportation proceedings. There ought to be a way of finding out from him or his wife what happened in the Trecca murder.

Surely, the operators of Murder, Inc., cannot be sentimental about their employers, any more than they are emotionally involved in the tasks they undertook.

Therefore, if any of them wanted to tell or found it advantageous to tell, they could make available the facts of this case, particularly the name of the employer.

Although Trecca was a philosophic anarchist who believed in individual rights and that government was a nuisance, he actually foresaw and fought the peril that now faces us.

He was at least 10 years ahead of his time and became a dangerous person because he was telling tales out of the Communist school.

He was not the only one who was gifted with foresight, but his reputation as a radical led credence to what he said and wrote.

So, he was killed.

The murder of Juliet Poyntz was a strictly inside job, done by the comrades themselves. Who killed General Krivitsky, after he wrote a series of articles for "The Saturday Evening Post," we do not know. But all indications are that Trecca was killed by Murder, Inc., as a professional job.

No one was ever brought to trial for these three murders.

Blood Collection Is Red Cross Feature

Anti-Paralysis Serum Made Of Donations

Donors Also Give For Armed Forces And Civilian Use

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of three articles detailing the work of the American Red Cross in the community and in the nation.)

Blood for gamma globulin, the new treatment for the prevention of paralysis in polio, is now being collected through the Columbus regional blood center and through the visits of the Bloodmobile to Pickaway County.

The blood program now has become a four-point program, each phase equal in importance.

Blood is being collected for: daily use in civilian hospitals in the Columbus regional area; whole blood for the wounded in Korea; blood for plasma for the armed forces or for use in any emergency in this country; and now, increased quantities of blood will be processed into serum albumin and gamma globulin fractions, the latter will be used for the prevention of paralysis in polio as well as for the treatment of measles and infectious hepatitis.

While the Red Cross will collect the blood for the important gamma globulin, Red Cross will not distribute or allocate the gamma globulin. Distribution will be done by Ohio State department of health in Ohio and by other state departments of health.

BLOOD COLLECTED in Pickaway County for gamma globulin will be sent to a commercial laboratory for fractionation. It then goes to a national stockpile to be allocated to communities where it is most needed.

Allocation will be made by the office of defense mobilization and not by Red Cross.

The allocation of gamma globulin to the office of defense mobilization is similar to the policy of allocation of whole blood to the defense department.

Once the whole blood is turned over to the defense department, that government agency has complete control. The task of Red Cross is to furnish the blood through the collecting agencies.

THE NATIONAL Research Council has named an "expert panel" of physicians which will be the authority for developing certain rules and standard practices for the use and allocation of gamma globulin by the office of defense mobilization.

Red Cross officials point out the use of gamma globulin in the prevention of polio is a "stop-gap" until such time as an effective vaccine can be developed.

Estimated cost to the American Red Cross for collecting and processing the blood and packaging the serum is $7 million.

An important part of the local Pickaway County budget will go toward this amount. In addition,

A little girl is inoculated with gamma globulin to immunize her against the paralyzing effects of polio. Tests with the blood plasma derivative last summer showed that one dose protects a child for about one month. Part of the blood collected by the Red Cross is now going into the production of gamma globulin for use in polio epidemics.

The cost of maintaining the bloodmobile unit for each visit and the share of cost in operating the equipment of the regional center is part of the local budget.

Eight visits a year are made to the county by the bloodmobile unit for the collection of blood. The goal for each visit is set for 150 pints of blood.

Next visit to Pickaway County will be made in Ashville, between noon and 6 p. m. on March 23. The visit is being sponsored by Ashville Community Club and will be held in the basement of the Evangelical United Brethren church.

By participation in the Columbus regional blood program, every citizen of Pickaway County is able to have free whole blood in any local hospital. No charge is ever made for the Red Cross blood.

Hospitals charge an administration fee of approximately $5 a pint of blood, but there is no charge for the actual blood itself.
